NIXON NOT IN A RUSH

Deadline Goes By

... Meeting Up In Air

By United Press International
The United States let pass the Communists' Oct. 31 cease-fire signing deadline Tuesday and said President Nixon would not be rushed because he is seeking "a lasting peace." Diplomatic sources in Paris said Hanoi had not yet accepted a U.S. proposal for a final secret meeting to wrap up an accord.

There was no firm indication when a Vietnam cease-fire would be signed but White House officials said it was "improbable" there would be any signing before the Nov. 7 presidential election.

"The only deadline we're operating under is the one that will bring about the right kind of an agreement," presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

Reds React Mildly

Despite their protests voiced in Paris, the Vietnamese Communists reacted mildly and called on Washington to sign "as soon as possible" the cease-fire agreement disclosed last Thursday by both North Vietnam and the United States.

Informed Paris diplomatic sources said that although Hanoi has not yet accepted a United States proposal for a final secret negotiating session, there is a great deal of activity behind the scenes aimed at arranging such a meeting with President Nixon's national security affairs adviser, Henry A. Kissinger.

They said much of this behind-the-scenes activity also was connected with the United States efforts to nail down agreement on withdrawal of the estimated 14 North Vietnamese army divisions from the South. South Vietnam was reported asking for assurances that Hanoi would withdraw its troops from the South under a peace accord.

The Paris sources said it is not yet certain whether the final round of talks will be in Paris. They said the United States is willing to meet North Vietnam's top negotiators anywhere convenient to them. However, they expressed doubt this meeting would be in Hanoi.

The sources added that all information reaching them about these behind-the-scenes "activities" confirms Kissinger's recent statement that "peace is a hand," even if a definite date for a cease-fire agreement cannot yet be set.

Flexibility Counseled

In London, diplomatic dispatches said both the Soviet Union and China — each acting on its own — were urging Hanoi to be flexible and continue negotiations with the United States for an end to the war. In Paris workmen continued rushing preparations for a signing ceremony at the site of the marathon peace talks.

In Saigon the South Vietnamese said "substantive problems" must be settled before there can be a cease-fire. A special envoy of President Nguyen Van Thieu said in Tokyo that South Vietnam wants assurances that North Vietnamese troops would be withdrawn from South Vietnam under a peace agreement.

The peace agreement as announced last week provides for repatriation of U.S. prisoners and withdrawal of all American and foreign allied forces within a 60-day period after the cease-fire. But it made no mention of withdrawal of Hanoi forces.

U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker held an unusual one-hour meeting with Thieu just after dawn Tuesday but spokesmen refused to reveal the substance of their talk. Thieu told newsmen at a special display of captured Communist weapons that he hoped for peace soon, but "that depends on the Communists."

Low Fog In Omaha Sends Planes To Lincoln

Some 485 airline passengers got a surprise visit to Lincoln Tuesday when weather played a Halloween prank.

Low fog, below minimum flying altitudes, engulfed Omaha's Eppley Field from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., preventing flights into or out of that city.

United Airlines diverted six flights bound for Omaha into Lincoln and Frontier Airlines rerouted two. Both airlines provided chartered buses to transport passengers to their Omaha destinations.

In addition, two United flights originally scheduled to depart Omaha were shuffled to originate in Lincoln, and United bused those passengers to Lincoln for takeoff, according to Gene Topp, United customer service supervisor.

Most of the Frontier passengers were destined for Omaha, said Larry Harms, Frontier sales and service agent, and passengers reacted well to the inconvenience.

Formal Complaint Filed Against Bish

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas Tuesday filed a formal complaint with the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, charging Republican State Chairman Milan Bish with "intentional misrepresentation" of Democratic financial reports.

Bish, Dyas said, attempted "to foster the impression we are hoarding large sums of money — $104,000 — and intentionally withholding funds from this campaign."

That allegation, he said, is "absolutely false" and was made "to divide our party and draw attention away from a valiantly-financed Republican campaign" in Nebraska.

Review Welcomed
In Grand Island, Bish said he would welcome a review by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

The Republican Party hopes Dyas and the Democratic Party "will clear up this matter" by filing expense statements showing where the $104,510.49 went, Bish said.

That, he said, was the figure the Democratic Party listed as cash on hand as of Oct. 16.

GOP Reports Filed
"The Nebraska GOP has filed complete and detailed reports in compliance with the intent of the federal campaign act of 1971," Bish said.

"With Democrats claiming the need for campaign funds, it was our legitimate question to ask what happened to the $104,000."

Dyas said the $104,000 represented net Democratic receipts prior to their expenditure for operations, including salaries, office expenses, voter registration efforts and travel.

Followed Law

As required by law, the Democratic report listed expenditures only for its candidates for national office, he said.

"Mr. Bish seized that net figure and without any research, without any documentation, without any attempt to find out what the truth was, he leveled a vicious shotgun attack on the Democratic Party and the motives of our party," Dyas told the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

"Since no attempt was made to verify any of these charges, and Mr. Bish was satisfied to fabricate all sorts of damaging allegations based on one figure in a report that he misunderstood, my complaint is that he intentionally misinterpreted, our position for the purpose of smearing the Nebraska Democratic Party, of dividing and creating a antagonism between the Democratic Party and its candidates and of taking attention away from the highly-financed Republican campaign in Nebraska."

Without Funds
Democratic State Treasurer L. L. Kohlhof of Lincoln said the party is actually without funds.

"With the efforts being made to strengthen the state and county organizations, to increase the voter registration and to help finance the candidates, the party has no funds at this time," Kohlhof said.

Dyas said it is his intention "to prove Mr. Bish wrong and to have him withdraw his untrue charges

Few Germans Jobless

Bonn — Unemployment in West Germany remained below 1% in 1971, the Economics Ministry reports. The 0.9 average was bettered only by Norway's 0.7%. Wages and salaries rose by 12.1% — a 6.9% jump in buying power — and retail prices climbed 5.3%.

Power Reactor Tests Questioned

•The New York Times

Washington — The Union of Concerned Scientists has renewed its attack on tests done for the Atomic Energy Commission, which underlie the safety of nuclear electric power plants.

The group, which is based in Cambridge, Mass., said new evidence was contained in more than a dozen letters and memorandums which they say were "suppressed" by the commission.

They have reprinted the documents and say they disclose a "shoddiness" of the test program and a conflict of interest that constitutes "a major scandal."

The documents deal with the tests done by the General Electric Co. to determine the effects of heat and cooling on its own nuclear fuel rods.

'Results Discredited'

"These internal AEC reports discredit the results of a key AEC testing program that the AEC publicly uses as the basis for licensing decisions on commercial nuclear power plants," the group said.

The documents use such phrases as "marginally effective" in describing tests, "little constructive efforts" in discussing the part of General Electric as well as "not a satisfactory demonstration test," and "seriously inadequate."

They are included in the brief filed before a special three-man hearing board that is looking into nuclear safety for the commission. The hearings which have run eight months, are being held in Bethesda, Md., and will resume Nov. 14.

The Cambridge group provides technical support at the hearings for the Consolidated

National Interventioners a group of 60 environmental groups.

The AEC, in its own testimony prepared by the regulatory staff for resumption of the hearings, gives further ground, in an apparent concession to the intervenors. It suggests further power outbacks for nuclear reactors.

GE Man: 'Groundless'

Spokesmen for GE, reached by telephone in San Jose, Calif., said the charges were "groundless" and indicated that the scientists had been "totally unable to substantiate the same charges" during the Bethesda hearings.

The study, prepared for President Nixon's Domestic Council, envisions a "wired nation" that would provide the government with a disaster-warning system and a means of dispensing a wide variety of services and information.

It provides also, said Moorhead, a blueprint for a government-operated propaganda and spy system. He asked President Nixon to inform the nation about the administration's intent and to make available more information about the plan.

Ziegler Unaware
White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he was unaware of any such report but declared, "I am sure this administration will not even propose or proceed with something like that."

The study in Moorhead's possession is stamped "Administratively Confidential" on each of its 300 pages. It is dated August 1971 and is described as a preliminary response to a request for the study by Dr. Edward E. David Jr., Nixon's science adviser.

The study contains detailed

The focus of the hearings is on the system used to cool the radioactive core of a reactor in the event that it should spring a leak in its cooling water system. Experiments at the national reactor test station at Idaho Falls in November, 1970, suggested serious problems in handling such an accident.

Emergency core cooling apparatus has long been standard safety equipment on the reactors. But there are few hard test data on exactly what happens in a loss-of-coolant accident or how the back-up systems work in such an emergency.

Col. Kruger Agrees

Exon said State Patrol Supt. Col. James Kruger "concurs with me the county attorney in all cases should have access to the trooper who investigates an accident where a fatality results."

The governor said after examining the report of the investigation, "it seems very sketchy indeed to me as to the details of the accident." McMullen contended the report lacked the names or statements of any witnesses, a complete statement by the driver, and information on where the victims, driver or other passengers had been or where they were going.

The two teenagers died of injuries suffered Saturday night when struck by a car driven by 15-year-old David Gangwish of Shelton. The patrol said Gangwish was driving on a license good for school purposes only.

"Not Satisfied"
"Certainly I am not satisfied with the overall details of the report," Exon said.

The governor suggested, however, the investigating officers may have been more preoccupied with getting the injured to the hospital, which he said "could have contributed to the sketchiness at the report."

But Exon promised "there will be more investigation and reports. The Patrol will be working under the direction of the county attorney to supply the further information he needs."

Exon Cooperative
McMullen said after his discussion with Exon he was "very satisfied with the governor's cooperation on the matter."

He said he emphasized to Exon "If I don't get cooperation out of the State Patrol to get the evidence I need for successful prosecutions, I don't want to prosecute that type of case."

McMullen also said he spoke to the governor about a recent Patrol policy change in which body fluids taken in drunk driving or drug-related incidents are now all being processed through the state laboratory in Lincoln, instead of in local labs such as the one in Grand Island.

10 to 14 Days
"It's very common I don't get the results for 10 to 14 days after they made the arrest, even in a serious accident like this," he said.

"I'm not finding fault with the state lab," he added. "They've got good men but they only have 2 or 3 and they need 7 or 8 at least."

McMullen said Hall County Attorney Sam Grimminger in Grand Island told him he has threatened to refuse to prosecute drunken driving cases unless the body fluid tests are completed according to his specifications.

Exon said he and McMullen didn't discuss that issue in detail, but added he was told by Kruger some body fluid tests are still being conducted in Grand Island.

Exon also said he had not heard of that specific complaint from many other county attorneys.

It's SSD Minus 14

(Super Safety Day is Nov. 15. This is one in a series of tips to help avoid any Nebraska traffic accidents that day.)

If you are intending to make a right turn, you can avoid an accident by getting into the proper lane well in advance of your turn. This is the lane nearest the curb, and puts you close to the right-hand side of the roadway during your approach and turn. Slow down gradually and signal your intention to turn well in advance.

News Summary

The United States and North Vietnam have agreed on a two-sided international commission to supervise a Vietnamese cease-fire, diplomatic sources in Paris said Tuesday. The commission would include Poland and Hungary on one side and Canada and Indonesia on the other. (Another story on Page 1.)

U.S. Seeks Assurances

Washington — As Hanoi's Oct. 31 deadline came and went without the signing of a cease-fire agreement in Paris, it was learned that the United States was seeking assurances that many of the 35,000 North Vietnamese troops stationed near the border would be withdrawn from South Vietnam despite the fact that the tentative agreement worked out in Paris would allow them to remain.

North Boosts Arms Flow

Washington — North Vietnam started a "heavy movement" of war materiel into South Vietnam about 10 days ago, according to intelligence officials in Washington. The stepped-up flow of equipment, supplies and troops appeared to match the accelerated delivery of jets, tanks and other military equipment to the South Vietnamese government by the United States, which wants to leave South Vietnam's armed forces as well prepared as possible before the expected cease-fire agreement.

McGoverns Wed 29 Years

Jersey City, N.J. — Sen. and Mrs. George McGovern celebrated their 29th wedding anniversary by stumping New York and New Jersey, where the Democratic nominee blamed the plight of the cities on excessive military spending. Declaring that President Nixon is "afraid to stand up to the gold-platers and the big wasters in the Pentagon," McGovern warned that "Mr. Veto" would be headless to the "despair" of the cities in a second administration. (More on Page 32.)

Conservatives One Up

Ottawa — After the closest parliamentary election in Canadian history, unofficial returns gave the opposition Progressive Conservative Party 109 seats to the incumbent Liberals' 108. (More on Page 2.)

Nixon To Stick To Air

Washington — President Nixon has scheduled a last-minute round of radio and television campaign addresses including an election eve telecast to the nation. (More on Page 32.)

Serious Questions Raised

Washington — A staff report of the House Banking Committee has raised new and serious questions about the legality of several large contributions to the Committee for the Re-election of the President. (More on Page 32.)

Reds Departing Border Area

•The New York Times

Phnom Penh, Cambodia — Authoritative Western military sources reported Tuesday that large numbers of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops are moving out of their Cambodian border base areas into South Vietnam.

It is apparently part of the Communist attempt to seize control of as much South Vietnamese territory as possible before a cease-fire is declared.

These military sources, who declined to be identified, said the Communist troops began their move a few weeks ago and that the push toward and into South Vietnam had been stepped up in the last several days.

All this has coincided with the flurry of negotiations between the United States and North Vietnam this month that has led to a tentative agreement on a cease-fire for Vietnam, but snags have developed and must be worked out before it can be signed and go into effect. In recent days, Communist troops have stepped up their attacks in South Vietnam, trying to grab new territory and be in the strongest position possible when the cease-fire comes.

Apparently as part of this pattern, Communist troops in Cambodia, according to the Western military sources, are pushing out of the provinces of Kampot, Takeo and Svay Rieng and crossing the border into South Vietnam's Mekong Delta region west and southwest of Saigon. One area they seem to be concentrating on as a stronghold is the region known as Seven Mountains, about 100 miles west of Saigon.

It is not known exactly how many Communist troops are involved in the cross-border drive, but the Western sources say it is at least several thousand and that it involves elements of the 1st North Vietnamese Division and other units.

South Vietnamese units have been trying to block the Communist push, but the Western sources said it was not clear how much success they were having.

Before this, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were estimated to have had about 60,000 troops operating in Cambodia. During the current invasion of South Vietnam, which the North Vietnamese began seven months ago, they normally left about one-third of these troops behind in Cambodia to protect their rear and their well-developed supply routes there.

Wheat prices in mid-October were up 1% to 129¢ of the 1967 base, and 13% above a year earlier. The previous high for average farm prices was set in August and September.

Wheat prices in mid-October, up for the third consecutive month, hit $1.89 a bushel at the farm level. This was up 16 cents from mid-September and was 57 cents — nearly 44% — above the $1.32 farmers were getting in July before news of sales to Russia boosted the market. The mid-October wheat price was 59 cents a bushel above a year earlier and beef cattle were $4.90 above a year earlier.

Farmers' costs, meanwhile, rose 1% during the month ending Oct. 15 and were 7% above a year earlier. This left farm prices at 75% of the "fair earning power" parity ratio compared with 74% a month ago and 70% a year ago.

Hogs, Pigs Down 6%

Washington — The U.S. Department of Agriculture's March 1 hog inventory of the 10 Corn Belt states showed the number of hogs and pigs at 41.8 million head, down 6% from a year earlier.

Average Farm Prices Hit All-Time High

Washington (UPI) — Average farm prices hit an all-time high in October as beef cattle broke a two-month slide and rose close to the record level of last summer, the Agriculture Department reported Tuesday.

The monthly farm price report, issued just a week before the election, also showed the boom in wheat prices — spurred by huge sales to Russia — was continuing and apparently will add to pressure for increases in retail bread prices.

The report for the month ending Oct. 15 showed that beef prices, down in August and September, rose to $34.20 per hundredweight in mid-October. This was $1 above mid-September and just 40 cents below the $34.60 record set in July.

Tour Bus Topples Down A Slope; 7 Killed, 28 Hurt

Athens (UPI) — A Bible lands tour bus carrying 38 Americans, many of them elderly women, skidded on a rain-slicked highway to ancient Corinth Tuesday and toppled down a steep slope. Police said seven persons died and 28 were injured.

Four women died outright and three others, including the Greek tour guide, died later in hospitals, police said.

Police said only three passengers escaped unhurt. Killed in the accident, according to police, were Audrey Tuttle, 67, of Colonial Heights, Va.; Jane Martin, 57; Mary Ryburn, 64; Rhoda Arthur, 67; Thelma Reynolds, 71, and Florence Blank, 68. The seventh victim remained unidentified. Addresses of all the victims were not immediately available.

Chicago Train Crash Probe Begun; Brakes Said 'Erratic'

Chicago (AP) — Railway specialists began on Tuesday a detailed investigation of the commuter train collision that killed 44 persons. One of the train engineers said an erratic braking system may have contributed to the rush hour crash.

Nearly 60 of the 350 persons injured in Monday's collision of two Illinois Central Gulf Railroad electric commuters remained in hospitals. Six persons were reported in critical condition.

The engineer of the lead train in the collision, James A. Watts, 51, said in a story copyrighted by Chicago Today: "The brakes didn't work like they should."

Watts was operating a four-car, double-deck train — new equipment — which overshot the 27th Street station on the South Side by 320 feet. He was backing up to

Train Crash Victim From North Platte

North Platte (AP) — One of the victims of the commuter train crash in Chicago Monday was a former North Platte resident, it was learned Tuesday.

He was identified as Edwin J. Shaughnessy Jr., 34, vice president of a Chicago public relations firm. Shaughnessy, a 1956 graduate of St. Patrick's High School in North Platte, joined the firm after his graduation from Notre Dame University in 1960.

Besides his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Shaughnessy of North Platte, he is survived by a brother, Joseph, who lives in North Platte, and another brother, Dr. Dennis Shaughnessy, in Omaha.

World News

the station when a train of six cars of old one-level equipment rammed into the rear of his train.

Brakes 'Erratic'

Watts said the brakes on the double-deck cars, four of 130 put into service last year by Illinois Central Gulf, "are a little erratic. Sometimes they work fine and sometimes they don't."

A spokesman for General Steel Industries' St. Louis Car Division, manufacturer of the coaches called Highliners, said the cars have a dual braking system. He said it would "almost be impossible for both to fail at the same time."

The braking systems of both trains and the structural safety of the double-deck cars will be high on the agenda of the investigation initiated by the National Transportation Safety Board.

Several Months

John H. Reed, chairman of the agency, told a news conference that the adequacy of the equipment, the signal system used by the railroad and competence of personnel involved would be included in the study which he said would require several months. He also announced that a public hearing on the crash would be held in Chicago within a month

Reed said it was apparent from the wreckage that the new cars "didn't measure up to the old equipment."

The lead car of the second train, made up of six 1926 single-level coaches, telescoped through the last half of the rear car of the lead train. Most of those killed and injured had been riding in these cars.

Safety Questioned

The manner in which the older car sliced through the newer models prompted questions about the double-decked cars' safety.

Early reports said the new cars were made of lightweight steel and aluminum. A spokesman for the IC said Tuesday, however, the new cars were made of high-tensile, low-alloy steel.

"There's not enough aluminum in them to wrap a sandwich," the spokesman said.

Size, Center

It was noted that the smaller size and lower center of gravity of the older cars may have allowed them to slam through the newer train.

The new cars weigh 134,000 pounds and carry 156 passengers each. The older models weigh 140,000 pounds and carry 85 passengers each. Both trains were crowded at the time of the accident.

Robert W. Cavanaugh, the engineer of the second train, was pinned in the wreckage for several hours and was removed from the critical list Tuesday. He had not yet been questioned.

Almost all the passengers on the two trains were commuters from the South Side and southern suburbs to jobs in the downtown area. The IC carries 35,000 commuters daily.

Bonn Demands Libya Try Hijackers

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt's government demanded on Tuesday that Libya try the two Arab hijackers who forced the release of three Palestinian terrorists involved in the Olympics massacre.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said the Libyan ambassador here, Jaial Mohamed Dagbely, was handed this demand after being summoned to the Foreign Ministry.

The spokesman indicated that Bonn did not press for extradition of the three terrorists who took part in the Olympics raid that left 11 Israeli athletes shot dead in the Munich airport shootout Sept. 5.

The spokesman said the Libyan ambassador was told that West Germany "expects Libya to follow the efforts of the international community toward combating terrorism by bringing the two hijackers to judgment."

He said Bonn expected Libyan action on this under terms of the 1970 Hague agreement on combating air piracy. This agreement, not signed by Libya, calls for punishment of hijackers in a country where they seek asylum.

Bonn officials said the question of seeking extradition of the three released Olympics terrorists did not arise in this case, since the Bavarian state government had already dropped murder charges against them during the negotiations Sunday to free 20 hostages held aboard a West German Lufthansa jet.

Libyan Embassy officials were not available for comment on the West German demand to punish the two hijackers.

All 15 Members Of Chile Cabinet Quit

Santiago, Chile (AP) — All 15 members of Chile's Cabinet resigned Tuesday to give President Salvador Allende a free hand in figuring out a way to end three straight weeks of strikes, street demonstrations, sabotage and political conflict.

Allende, ill with a bad cold, accepted the resignations of Interior Minister Jaime Suarez, the No. 2 man in the government, and Education Minister Anibal Palma. They were among four Cabinet members whom anti-administration congressmen sought to impeach for "violating the constitution."

How many more resignations the president would approve was not known. Rumors have persisted that Allende will appoint politically neutral, high-ranking military officers to the Cabinet in a move to calm this South American nation of 10 million people, at least until next March's congressional elections.

Chileans will vote then for all 150 members of the House of Representatives and 25 of 50 senators. Suarez and Palma are expected to be candidates. To run, they would have been required by law to give up their Cabinet posts.

Police in the southern city of Puerto Varas said Tuesday that unidentified persons blew up a power pole. It was typical of incidents of recent days, which Allende has labeled "sabotage."

Former presidential candidate Radomiro Tomic, a Christian Democrat and one of the two men Allende beat in the 1970 elections, appealed for a "democratic truce" until the congressional voting. "Let the people decide in March," he said.

Most businesses in Chile stayed closed. Truck drivers, farmers, teachers, engineers, doctors, lawyers and even high school pupils also remained on strike, protesting the government's program to socialize the economy.

Horse Disease 'Emergency' Is Cancelled

Washington (UPI) — The Agriculture Dept. Tuesday cancelled a "national emergency" proclamation issued in July 1971 to help combat a dangerous horse disease.

No cases of the disease, Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), have been confirmed since Nov. 7, 1971.

The "emergency" declaration was issued as a technical step to allow agriculture officials to release funds for combatting the disease and to help prevent its spread. In a related action, the department also lifted a VEE quarantine imposed on horses in Texas last year.

Here's the BIG question for all Workers, Farmers, Businessmen

Do you believe that the Occupational Safety and Health Act (OSHA) needs to be amended?

Do you believe that farmers and small businesses should have an exemption from the Act?

If so, cast your vote for the United States Senator who has carried the ball for you on this important issue.

Twice Senator Carl Curtis has gotten a farmers' and small business exemption from OSHA through the Congress of the United States.

Senator Curtis is leading the fight for modifications in OSHA for the benefit of all farmers, businessmen and employees alike—which will result in a better law to promote health and safety.

One of the vital changes that must be made is to remove from OSHA inspectors their authority to act as policeman, judge and jury on each alleged infraction... the law should be amended so that there shall be no penalty if the alleged violation is corrected in reasonable time.

Senator Curtis is the only candidate for the United States Senate in Nebraska who is committed to modifying the law and providing a farmers' and small business exemption.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Both political parties in the U.S. might find encouragement in the Canadian election returns. Our neighbors to the north have surprised everyone by giving a majority in the House of Commons to no one, thereby effectively defeating the Liberal party of Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Robert L. Stanfield's Conservative party appears to have picked up a slight edge in the House but neither party has the majority that is essential for formation of a government and operation of the nation. For control, either party would have to rely upon minority support from small but not significant splinter groups.

In Canada's parliamentary system, a government is formed by the majority party in the House and the failure of anyone to win a majority triggers a new election at a later date. Conservatives may end up holding more seats than the Liberals but whether they will even try to form a government is uncertain.

The fact that the election results were a surprise is a point in favor of Sen. George McGovern, himself running in an uphill battle against President Nixon. The results in Canada, McGovern could say, prove that advance polls do not determine the outcome nor are they always right.

The pollsters had had Trudeau slipping some but still with a pretty good lead among the electorate. And the upset occurred in the midst of what many described as considerable voter apathy, a situation that is said to exist at this time in the U.S.

The campaigns had some similarities, too, with Trudeau traveling little but setting himself above the road of politics and relying heavily upon Madison Ave. techniques. On the other hand, Stanfield stumped all over the place, spending long hours on trains, buses and cars.

Additionally, Stanfield's campaign was said not to be well organized and the candidate never seemed able to rouse any real enthusiasm among the voters. Clearly, Nixon more closely fits the Trudeau image and McGovern, the Stanfield image.

But then you have to look at other factors. It is said, too, that there were no major issues in the Canadian election, although employment was high at more than seven per cent and inflation was hurting some people.

The election was billed by experts in Canadian affairs as a popularity contest for Trudeau, a man who supposedly won in 1968 largely due to his own personal popularity. Trudeau was a swinging bachelor in 1968 and has since acquired a wife and an infant son.

In 1968, Trudeau was cast in the role of a John F. Kennedy and voters simply had the feeling that he would, somehow, manage to solve all the problems of the nation.

He stood for change, for new approaches, for a departure from more traditional political and institutional approaches. Stanfield is a traditionalist, a man who thinks you achieve things not so much by brilliance as by dint of hard work and diligence.

If you look for comparisons in this area, you have to put Nixon in Stanfield's winning camp and McGovern in Trudeau's losing camp. McGovern is the one who wants to depart from old established ways of doing things and Nixon is the one who stands solidly in favor of old values and principles.

As for personal popularity, it is not likely to be much of an issue in the Nixon and McGovern struggle because neither of them is proving to be much of a winner on that score. Nixon knows he is not especially popular personally and McGovern ought to know that he has not really started the adrenalin flowing in the American people.

Thus, as an insight into what might happen in the U.S. on Nov. 7, the Canadian results really are not very convincing. If there are any meaningful signs at all to be had from Canada, they would seem to favor Nixon on the grounds that voters are hard to move in large numbers from the so-called political middle ground.

For Canadians, the results will be unsettling for a time but the picture will ultimately be cleared up.

Californians To Cast Vote On Acceptability Of 'Pot'

WASHINGTON — In the upper reaches of the Establishment, the idea is taking hold that criminal penalties for personal use of marijuana should be reduced or eliminated. Proposals to that end have been made this year by the American Bar Association, American Medical Association, the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, and various members of Congress.

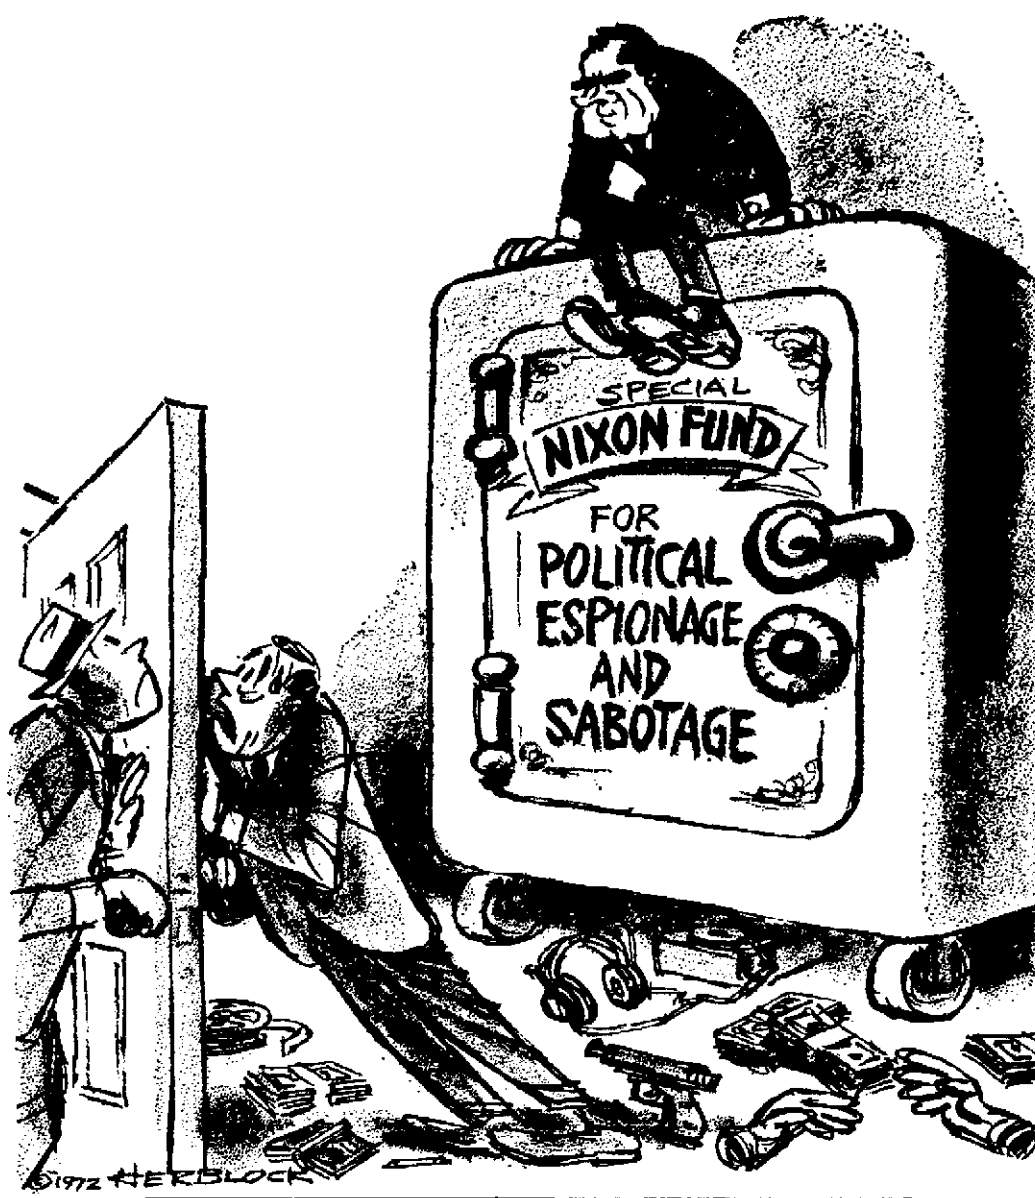

Now the public — or at least a portion of it — is about to be heard from. An initiative on the No. 7 California ballot would permit adults to grow and process marijuana for their personal use. Supporters of the proposition argue that it would "decriminalize" rather than "legalize" marijuana use, a distinction that opponents find meaningless.

The marijuana issue is charged with emotion and paradox. A Gallup Poll published last spring found that the number of adult Americans who have tried the drug and nearly tripled — to 15 million — in the previous two and one-half years. In the same period, however, opposition to legalizing marijuana had decreased only from 84 to 81%.

The same poll reported that marijuana use was highest in the 18-29 age group, and that persons with a college background were "much more likely to have used the drug at some point than those with less formal education." Furthermore, the incidence of pot-smoking was greater in the cities and suburbs than in small towns, and greater in the West than in any other section.

'It Doesn't Exist, — And Besides, He Doesn't Have Anything To Do With It'

Smart Farmers In Dark

The smart thing these days, according to a Nixon spokesman, is to keep people in the dark. That, at least, is the agricultural philosophy of the administration, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture official William Galbraith.

Nixon is smart, he says, not to disclose his farm program for next year because that would throw the issue into the political arena where agriculture lacks political muscle. He throws in for good measure the opinion that adverse publicity surrounding the recent Soviet wheat deal is damaging to prospects of enacting a new farm program next year.

When it comes to plain old political hogwash, Galbraith comes through with flying colors. His is about as screwy a bunch of reasoning as we have ever seen and he would have been far better off to have said nothing at all.

Now he raises the question of what kind of surprises the administration has in store for agriculture in 1973. He notes that "the real danger now is whether we can come out with any farm bill at all."

At the moment, farmers in general are relatively happy, with prices reasonably good for feed grains and livestock. Whether those conditions will carry over for another year is anybody's guess but they are a credit to the present administration.

It is well to note, however, that farm population continues to decline and the farmers' share of the national economy still is not what it should be.

Galbraith makes you wonder if what has seemed to work this year will be abandoned for a pig in a poke in 1973. As for political muscle, agriculture does not have what it did 25 years ago but it isn't without clout and a president who could get no farm program would be a president who didn't really want one.

The farm program will be no more or less of a political and partisan issue in 1973 under a cloak of secrecy than it would be in light of full public discussion. The "smarts" involved is not for the sake of agriculture but for the political well-being of President Nixon. He is simply telling the farmers to trust him and not ask any questions.

Lesson In Cooperation

The Omaha area river-front development project has now been given a $1 million federal planning grant, a good start to what could turn out to be an outstanding national example of cooperation. The cooperation involves the cooperation of both Nebraska and Iowa legislatures, six counties, five cities, dozens of other governmental subdivisions and various private interests.

It is hard to imagine a more diversified group but it is in existence and moving ahead on plans for the business and recreational development of 54 miles of frontage on both sides of the Missouri River from Blair to Bellevue. We are not intimately familiar with the development but the fact that such a wide range of interests can be brought together for effective action is most encouraging.

When you see something like this happening, you can't help but wonder at the petty political infighting that keeps so many other areas from a cooperative approach to their problems. You wonder why a single city and county cannot get together on matters of mutual concern to them when dozens of groups find a way to work together along the Nebraska-Iowa border.

The Nebraska-Iowa program simply proves that, given the good will of all concerned, such cooperation can be achieved. All it takes is a common desire to achieve results and the other things begin to fall into place.

Some day we hope the lesson will be learned by public officials at all levels of government so they can begin to put aside the artificial jealousies that divide them and unite in common goals of benefit to all their people. Governments do not necessarily have to dissolve themselves into single agencies but can find many areas of cooperation while maintaining their local sovereignty. We hope the Nebraska-Iowa experiment does not prove to be a unique one.

Kissinger Denies Peace Move Tied To Election; Value Of Thieu's 'Chance To Remain' Debated

NEW YORK — Dr. Henry Kissinger's confident assertion that "peace is at hand" in Indochina is the most welcome statement from a public official or from any administration since the resolution of the Cuban missile crisis. At long last, after so many lights at the end of the tunnel, and even though there was a natural sense of relief that this announcement did not bring news of invasion, bombing, mining or deadlock, Kissinger even managed to be convincing.

Not the least reason for that was his own evident sense of accomplishment and pride in a historic piece of work; and he did not fail, in that high moment, to describe it to the world in prose that for lucidity and precision was worthy of its subject. No doubt he knew that for many other persons than those he described as "participants," the ending of this long and rending war also was a "traumatic experience."

Kissinger insisted — again, in convincing fashion — that the American side had not timed the emerging settlement to the election, now only a few days away.

Nevertheless, his explanation of the substance of the agreement with Hanoi tended to make it sound as if the North Vietnamese had made most of the concessions, coming far around to what had been the American position all along.

Certainly they did, in separating the military and political issues. But Washington also appears to have made a solid concession in agreeing to a cease-fire, a total withdrawal of American forces, and a substantial limitation on military aid to the Saigon government, while at the same time permitting the North Vietnamese army to remain in South Vietnam. That seems fair enough, since Saigon will retain its million-man army, too; but it is a far cry from all those past demands for total withdrawal of all foreign armies.

The presence of North Vietnamese forces in many parts of South Vietnam is one factor that will sharply limit the ability of the present Saigon regime and President Thieu to control the elections that will ultimately decide South Vietnam's political future.

Another will be the planned appointment of a "Council of National Reconciliation and Concord," composed of all the contending political forces in South Vietnam, including the Viet Cong, to arrange and oversee the elections.

This latter instrument does appear, as Kissinger suggested, to be nearer the long-standing American proposal for an "elections commission" than to the equally familiar North Vietnamese demand for a tripartite coalition government — particularly since Thieu would be permitted to remain in office pending the outcome of the election.

Why did Hanoi make these concessions, even in return for its own gains, after so many stubborn years? Kissinger refused to speculate, but already it is being suggested that the change resulted from the mining of North Vietnamese harbors and the resumption of bombing. But American officials concede these steps have had little effect on the war in the south; so a more important influence may have been the halting of last spring's North Vietnamese offensive, primarily by massive doses of American air power applied in close support of the generally inept South Vietnamese army.

Whatever the reason, the result appears to meet President Nixon's demand that the present regime at least have a "chance" to continue in office. Arguing that this agreement could not have been had at any other time in the last four years, Kissinger insisted that it was possible now only

JACK ANDERSON

Nursing Home Reports Closed

WASHINGTON — The story of Mrs. Harry Merica of Naked Creek, Va., is a story of how America's bureaucracy can neglect the people it is supposed to serve.

Mrs. Merica is a spunky, mountain woman in her late 40s. When Hurricane Agnes ripped through Naked Creek last summer, the floods wiped out a wooden footbridge that connected Naked Creek to the outside world.

Mrs. Merica was the hardest hit. She was forced to carry her two disabled children on her back every day across a small, makeshift bridge which had been hastily constructed upstream. Mrs. Merica made this dangerous trek so that her children could catch the school bus on highway 609 across the creek from her home.

After two months of this, Virginia officials finally heard about Mrs. Merica's plight.

Unfortunately, the state didn't fix the original footbridge or begin construction of a badly needed concrete highway bridge. Instead, incredibly, the state took the two children away from the despairing Mrs. Merica.

Both children are handicapped with muscular dystrophy. The Virginia State Nursing Home in Charlottesville, with typical bureaucratic reasoning, concluded that a safe bridge across the creek was essential to the children's welfare and, therefore, that Mrs. Merica did not provide a proper home for her children.

Of course, it's up to the government, not Mrs. Merica, to provide the bridge. But for seven years, we are told, state and local authorities have squabbled over who should build it.

Mrs. Merica's local minister, George Shivers, is trying to persuade federal authorities to act. He has talked to Virginia's Sen. Harry Byrd and to the Transportation Department. But so far no solution is in sight.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Merica's neighbors continue to shake their heads. Their attitude toward the government was expressed by one neighbor, who told us laconically: "The government doesn't make the rain. It doesn't make the sun. It doesn't grow my farm. And it doesn't affect me."

Despite a federal court ruling that nursing home files should be open to the public, Social Security Commissioner Robert Ball has brazenly suppressed information on the quality of nursing homes where many older Americans spend their last years.

It's common knowledge in the health industry that some of these facilities are unsanitary firetraps. This is information, obviously, that the public is entitled to know.

The 4,500 nursing homes that receive Medicare money must pass federal inspection. This usually isn't too difficult; routine approval is given if the homes are in "substantial compliance" with federal standards.

The nursing home inspection reports, however, are never released. The taxpayers, who paid for the inspections, can't find out which homes are safe and clean.

For three years, an enterprising investigative reporter, Mal Schechter, has battled with Social Security to gain access to inspection reports on nursing homes, hospitals and clinical laboratories.

He bumped into a brick wall at Social Security. So Schechter enlisted the help of a Ralph Nader attorney, Ron Plesser, and filed suit under the Freedom of Information Act. They argued that an old Social Security law, which protects the privacy of individuals, shouldn't be used to hide nursing home deficiencies.

Federal Judge Joseph C. Waddy agreed and ordered the release of 15 reports requested by Schechter. Reporters assumed this settled their right to nursing home information. But they didn't reckon with the wily ways of the bureaucrats.

Commissioner Ball has chosen to interpret Judge Waddy's decision as an order to release only the specific reports requested by Schechter. If reporters want to see other inspection records, they, too, must go to court.

This amazing cover-up policy has been put in writing. "The Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in responding to future requests for disclosures of similar documents, will be guided by its present regulations prohibiting disclosure," states the directive.

"This means that, for the present, the Department of Justice will oppose any further efforts to obtain court orders for the disclosure of nursing home survey reports that have already been prepared."

Footnote: A Social Security spokesman candidly admitted that the agency is treading water to see what happens. They note that a case similar to Schechter's is pending before federal court in northern California and they hope it will be decided in their favor. They also point out that a bill governing access to their records recently passed Congress. The new law, however, will open the records at some future date and wouldn't permit public access to reports of previous inspections.

Illegal employment agencies throughout the United States have been bliking job hunters by advertising jobs on the Alaskan pipeline. Several workers have turned up in Alaska after paying fees for jobs that don't exist on a pipeline that doesn't exist. Senator Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, has asked the Justice Department to investigate.

Letters To The Editor

Brevity in letters is requested but length in itself will have no bearing on publication. Writers are advised that needless details and repetitious matter will be edited out of letters. Two frequent contributors from one person on the same subject may be rejected. All letters must be accompanied by the writer's true name but may be submitted for publication under a pen name or initials. However, letters will be printed under a pen name or initials at the editor's discretion.

Orme vs. Marsh

Lincoln, Neb.

The Star's information on Senator Orme must come from her press releases. She does not fully represent her district, at all. She has been known to duck many controversial issues. She has favored labor over business (which is no crime but it's not representing the people when the 29th District has a strong business orientation). Her only claim to fame is that she is a friend of the university. So are a lot of people including Shirley Marsh.

Senator Orme is a myth. I think it's time for the 29th District to update its representation. We need a more enthusiastic listener to the problems of this district. Shirley Marsh should be elected to the Legislature.

PEGGY JONES

The Choice

Lincoln, Neb.

I was extremely impressed while listening to Senator

McGovern field grueling questions from six newsmen for one hour on "Meet The Press" on Sunday, Oct. 29.

He has a real depth of sincerity and is a complete master of his convictions and he has a vast knowledge of domestic, military and foreign affairs. Besides that, his compassion is for real.

It seems to me that everyone who is open-minded or undecided should have been favorably impressed with this facing of facts and his reaction to many questions.

I don't think there is any possible way that President Nixon could ever face such a confrontation as this, because if one makes up his answers as he goes along to try to sound good, while being brief, he would trip himself with his insincerity.

If we want a president who is concerned about people and justice, I think we should vote for McGovern. And if we want four more years of political power manipulation and favors for rich contributors, I think we should vote for Nixon.

It is just that simple, and the same goes for the congressional tickets in Nebraska, too. Darrel Berg is one of the best qualified candidates to file for Congress, in the House, that I can remember.

L. K. EMERY

Judge Slocum

Lincoln, Neb.

Judge Ralph Slocum deserves another term as county judge. He has been fair and impartial in the disposition of his office. Many controversial cases have come before him in the past and each was determined strictly on its individual merits.

Having been a neighbor and friend of his for over 12 years, I know how dedicated he is to his office. We need this type of individual in our courts.

T. C. F.

Harold Hoppe

Lincoln, Neb.

In this presidential election year, people say that the job of member of the board of directors of the Nebraska Public Power District is an unimportant one, but I don't buy that.

Actually, the NPPD board decisions can have more immediate effects on our way of life than those of the president of the United States.

This is why I support Harold Hoppe for the NPPD board. He is a successful businessman and knows what it takes to operate a large business. Mr. Hoppe takes the "no-nonsense" approach to management in general and this is what we need on the NPPD board.

I think we all should be grateful that a Lincoln businessman would take time out to serve on the Nebraska Public Power District board, a man with the qualifications of Harold Hoppe.

MARION M. MCCracken

Fugate Program

San Diego, Cal.

I watched the NBC special, "Growing Up In Prison," recently with great interest.

We lived in Lincoln, Nebraska, during those years. I went down to her trial and Charles Starkweather's trial many days. I visited some of the places they stopped when they were running after their killing spree in Lincoln, on their way to Wyoming.

I think Carol was very young and didn't use good judgment at the time, but I honestly don't believe she was held hostage. There were several times she could have told someone who he (Charles S.) was and gotten help, but she didn't. I think she did the wrong thing by not trying to get away.

But watching the program that evening, I felt very sorry for Carol. At 14, being thrown into solitary confinement, and from all appearances, no one in the world caring, not even getting letters from her own sister — these things are almost too awful to think about.

She really appears to have rehabilitated herself, and improved conditions at the Women's Reformatory at York. I don't know what the parole board will decide, but I'm sure most people would agree she should be paroled. But I don't think she should ever be exonerated.

Likes 'Sod Buster'

Lincoln, Neb.

I just want "Sod-Buster" to know how much I enjoy his letters. They are always so honey and interesting, never critical. I know he is a fine person and I'd like to know him.

The Star has two writers who contribute quite often, but their letters are always of a critical nature, which is quite boring.

Winnebago Tribe Remembers Tie To Nature, Cultural Roots

By DICK HOLMAN
Star Staff Writer

"In this month the deer have a habit of scratching the earth with the hoof."

Amid patchwork concrete highways and asphalt strings lacing the land, connecting all points, the Winnebago tribe of Nebraska does not forget its tie to nature and its cultural roots.

Preservation of its cultural integrity — its history, language, social customs, religious beliefs — remain important to the tribe.

"At the Winnebago reservation, some 100 miles north of Lincoln, the tribe accomplishes some cohesiveness among tribal members through a weekly publication, the "Winnebago News."

Council Member
Editor Neola Walker, also newly elected tribal council member, publishes items ranging from adult education surveys and historical essays about Indian events, to cooking tips, job openings and Winnebago maxims.

"Touch not the poisonous firewater that makes wise men turn to fools and robs the spirit of its vision," the News quotes Tecumseh, a 19th century Indian leader.

Above it an illustration shows an Indian toting a box of agricultural department WWI surplus commodities while dreaming of a bottle of wine.

The maxim and cartoon bolster a story about an alcoholism program offered on the reservation.

About Half

Cultural awareness composes only about half the items in the News. Usually the non-profit newspaper spins four to six pages announcing pow-wows, Indian movement conventions and meetings, Winnebagoes in college or technical training and minutes of tribal council meetings.

An article on rental of Indian bottom land noted award of a lease to a private party for a cash sum plus two dressed beef a year for five years, specifying delivery at each annual pow-wow. Barter lives, even in the age of contractual agreements.

The maxims, however, are not restricted to Winnebagoes: "Reverence the Unseen Forces that are always near you and are always trying to lead you aright."

Another: "Learn the sentiments and responses of your elders. If you do not, and are called in the absence of your elders to an honored seat in the ceremony, and the ceremonial proceedings come to you, you will cough and scratch your head for lack of knowledge, and expose your lack of training."

Most Important
Though honey stories — like medical tips and information about dentures — run often, the cultural influence remains most important.

Ralph Keen, who wrote "What Is An Indian?" in one edition, simply but powerfully affirms Indian culture, while

Sen. McGovern Would Probe Wyoming Project

Cheyenne, Wyo. (UP) — Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern has pledged to investigate the proposed Wagon Wheel project in southwest Wyoming if he is elected.

McGovern's pledge came in a statement released in Cheyenne.

The Wagon Wheel project is sponsored by the Atomic Energy Commission and El Paso Natural Gas Co. The project involves the underground explosion of five nuclear devices in sequence to gas.

4 Cities Cut Unemployment To Below 6%

Washington (UPI) — The Labor Department removed four cities from its list of major areas with "substantial unemployment," reducing the number to 47, the lowest point in 20 months.

The four metropolitan areas taken off the list when their jobless rates fell below 6% were Pittsburgh; Baton Rouge, La.; Racine, Wis.; and the Gary-Hammond-East Chicago area of Indiana.

A third or more of the 150 areas in the large city category had been on the list for the past 20 months, with a high of 65 reached last October.

More Down In Lakes

Knoxville, Tenn. — Fifty-two people drowned in 1971 while using TVA lakes for recreation, seven more than in 1970.

allowing the necessity to cross the "culture barrier."

A poem, "Before the White Man Came" by E. Robinson, traces the happiness of the Winnebago through the seasons when the earth was "abundant in beauty and strength and secrets galore."

"Tired Old Earth" Robinson concludes sadly "And today! A very tired old Earth robbed of its beauty and strength, hath no secrets, except its old age and the day, to die."

Reuben Snake, national co-chairman of the progressive

American Indian Movement and a Winnebago, contributed "The Trail of Broken Treaties," referencing the oppression of the Indian, and describing the pan-Indian movement to regain sovereign treaty rights.

Winnebagoes emulate pride in their heritage, and believe in tremendous respect for their fellow men. That too is portrayed in the newsletter: "If a stranger enters your lodge share your store with him; even the last kernel of corn is not too small to divide with him."

Walter Earns Degrees From Different Universities in '72

Earning two advanced degrees in a single year is an unusual attainment, but to do it in widely different fields and from different universities is even more rare.

But this is the 1972 attainment of Dr. C. K. Walter, a member of the College of Business Administration's marketing department faculty at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

In March, Walter was awarded the Ph.D. degree in marketing from Ohio State University in Columbus. This month he received the master's degree in engineering from Penn State at University Park, Pa.

Walter spent the past summer at Penn State completing his work in engineering science. He also holds a bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland and a master's degree in business administration from Ohio State.

Walter joined the University of Nebraska-Lincoln faculty in 1971 as a specialist in logistical problems of marketing, dealing with the management of the physical flow of products and services. A new course in logistics which he developed will be offered next spring.

Asked why he sought the masters degree in engineering when he already held a doctorate, Walter explained: "It seemed that I was throwing away all that previous work if I didn't finish."

He began work on it at Penn State's King of Prussia Graduate Center in 1967 while employed as an application engineer by General Electric in Philadelphia. He resigned his General Electric post in 1968 to complete work on his doctorate in marketing at Ohio State.

The Canfield, Ohio, native denies that there is any conflict between studies in business and engineering. "The flow of economic goods can be treated much the same as the flow of electrons", he says. "The mathematical techniques applied to logistics problems are very similar to the techniques used by engineers."

Members Of Big Eight Recreation Departments To Meet

Members of recreation departments at Big 8 universities will meet at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Nov. 10-11.

Dan Steller, director of recreation and intramurals at the University, said 40 representatives of Big 8 universities are expected to attend.

All sessions will be held in the Nebraska Union.

Federal Building Ceremonies Set

A ceremonial groundbreaking for the new Federal Office Building in Lincoln has been scheduled for Thursday, one day after bids on the structure are opened in New York City and Kansas City.

Assuming Wednesday's bids are satisfactory, the selection of awardees will be announced Thursday, according to Congressman Charles Thone.

Invitations to the ceremonial groundbreaking were mailed in Lincoln Monday on behalf of Arthur Sampson, acting administrator of the General Services Administration in Washington.

The event is scheduled for 10 a.m. Thursday at the northeast corner of 15th and O.

The office building and parking facility will be built between 15th and 16th, and between N and P, with the five-story office structure located on the square block north of O.

The New York City bid opening involves financing only on a $25,100,000 package to be repaid over a 30-year period.

In Kansas City, bids will be taken both for construction only, and on a package involving both construction and financing.

Construction on the Lincoln federal building is expected to begin in November or December, Thone said.

Thursday's ceremony comes just five days before the general election. Thone has pointed in his re-election campaign to his success in gaining congressional approval to begin construction of the facility which has been authorized since 1966.

Thone co-sponsored legislation to clear a backlog of congressionally-authorized federal buildings through lease-purchase financing.

The entity financing the Lincoln building will take title to it and the land under it and will pay local property taxes for the 30-year financing period.

The federal government now pays more than $500,000 in annual rent for private space occupied by federal agencies, Thone noted.

Coal-Burning Power Plant Draws Sierra Club Concern

The Lincoln Sierra Club expressed concern Tuesday to Lincoln Electric System (LES) Board members and local officials over the planned construction of a coal-burning power plant near Sutherland.

LES has indicated it would purchase power from the plant, which is scheduled to be built by the Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD).

Dr. Al Fagerstrom, vice-president of the environmental group, warned of the potential harm from the plant, citing a Colorado case.

He said, "In Durango, Colo., respiratory disease rates doubled after installation and operation of a similar coal burning plant nearly a hundred miles away."

The Nebraska plant will be located 17 miles from North Platte.

Fagerstrom pointed out that LES has a responsibility as a public agency adding, "LES should insist that NPPD produce clean power if it is to buy it for its Lincoln area consumers."

Fagerstrom's address was a part of a special conference sponsored by LES on public power.

Other topics included talks on the latest advancements being made in developing new methods of generating electricity and the need for expanded regional planning for future power requirements.

Retired Army General Hester To Speak On U.S. Role In Asia

A retired Army general, one of the highest ranking military men to oppose U.S. involvement in southeast Asia, will speak Thursday on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus.

Brig. Gen. Hugh B. Hester will discuss current negotiations for settlement of the Indochina war and U.S. foreign policy at 12:30 p.m. in the University Ballroom of the student union, according to John K. Hansen of Newman Grove.

Gen. Hester, an author and columnist since his retirement, has written and lectured extensively on a national scale since 1955. His specialty, a carry-over from his active duty service, is international relations and foreign policy, Hansen reported.

The North Carolina native served in the now defunct War Department, served under Gen Douglas MacArthur in the Pacific, was decorated in WWI and WWII, and is a personal friend of former President Harry S. Truman, Hansen said.

City Of Ravenna Receives Funds For Ball Park

A total of $19,750 in federal funds and $9,875 in state funds has been awarded to the city of Ravenna for a recreational development project.

The project, which was authorized through the U.S. Interior Department's Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and the State Game Commission, will be matched with $9,875 in local funds to provide a ballfield lighting system, construct a tennis court and provide restrooms and a drinking fountain at the community ball park.

RICHMAN GORDMAN 45th And VINE ★ OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK 10 to 10

POSTCARD by Stan Dolaplan

He parked the big, expensive car on a side road in the dark park, turned on the dome light and wrote: "I am about to lose everything."

"Everything" was a big house — with two mortgages. The Cadillac — with two years payments due. A business that he'd put his money in — now doing badly.

I knew him well. A piece of lucky money dropped on him. He quit the job and opened the business. Rocked along pretty well. New house. New car. Then the bottom dropped out. Back where he started.

He turned off the dome light. Took the pistol from the glove compartment and shot himself.

What makes the losers? The winners? After many successful years, my grandfather lost it all. Wiped out — and a good deal of age on him.

He started right over. "While there's life there's hope," he wrote me. "Keep plugging and you are bound to win."

While chopping out verbs and adjectives for the dailies, I was sent out to see a number of people who had done themselves in.

With pistols. Sleeping pills. Rope. In cars with the engine still running.

I went down to the coroner's office one day and read the file of suicide notes.

They are dramatic and full of despair.

"I feel I cannot go on any longer..."

A lot of them could not face the bleakness of losing what they had gained. There's danger in success.

"Man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward," my grandmother quoted. When the hard times hit, she buckled down and cut the bills. Moved into a cheaper house. It's a good thing to be raised in a family of winners.

They had seen a lot of bad times in their own families. The homes that burned down. The crops that failed. The children who died in childhood.

"What you gained once, you can get again," my grandfather wrote me. "Never say die."

He didn't put it all together again, but he came close to it.

"He met success like a gentleman and disaster like a man." That's not a bad obituary.

A few times I talked to people who tried to do the suicide route and failed. Jumped and lived. Shot themselves and the bullet missed the vital spot. Took the pills but not enough.

"I guess I couldn't hit the broad side of a barn," one man told me — the bullet had run around instead of through his head.

He said: "Anyway, I've changed my mind. It's good to be alive."

Some were tragic comedy. In the coroner's office was a note from a man: "The thought of losing everything is more than I can stand..."

He tried to hang himself. The rope broke. He took poison and threw it up. He tried to shoot himself. It turned out to be a sporting starter's gun. Blank cartridges.

"After that, I just said to hell with it and decided to live."

I hope he's living happily ever after.

"Sometimes it takes a lot of courage just to go on living," my grandfather wrote me. My grandmother had died — there are things you cannot get again.

He said: "I never regretted anything I did so much as the things I left undone."

He said: "Keep going even if you run into a brick wall. A moving plow never gets rusty."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Wednesday

Scorpio can retreat and take offensive almost simultaneously. The native of this zodiacal sign comes from behind, as a fierce competitor but also is willing to aid the underdog. These persons are mysterious and courageous. Among famous individuals born under Scorpio include Sorio Agnew and Sargent Shriver.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may be trying to go in too many directions. Settle for course which leads to ultimate goal. Moderate pace. Older relative could be helpful if you are positive. Don't permit pride to block progress.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Hold reins on extravagance. Fine to purchase item which makes family more comfortable but don't smash budget. Be a comparison shopper and choose quality. Genuine bargain is available especially where luxury item is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21): Don't attempt to duck responsibility. You gain if you are aware of potential. You lose if you delegate duties, skip details. See situation in realistic light. Be patient. All facts have yet to be evaluated.

CANCER (June 21-July 21): Obtain hint from Gemini message. What appears elusive is actually quite solid. Do some investigating. Older individual can aid if approached correctly. You won't get something for nothing. Know it and proceed accordingly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): If you insist on chasing leading proposition, be prepared to pay price. Wise course is to finish, complete, tie loose ends and digest lessons learned in recent past. New horizons are about to open.

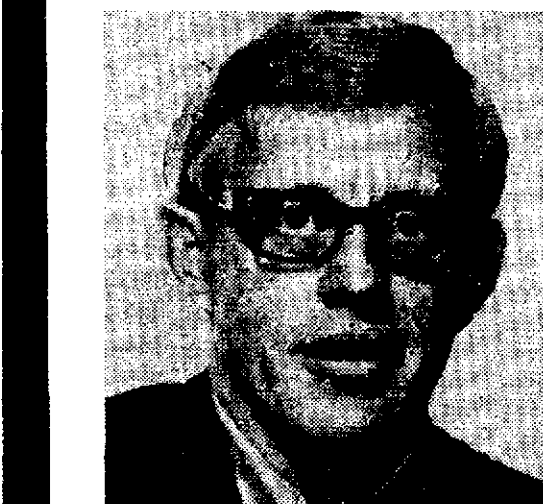

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have more in your favor than is apparent. Refuse to be bluffed. Make others show their hands. Circumstances now provide you with good timing. Make new starts. Emphasize original approach.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): One who taught you in past could make reappearance. You gain by sharing knowledge. Cooperate with Aquarian. Accent is on being quiet within. You have no need to keep up with those who run but don't know why.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Avoid scattering forces. Check diet. Pan panics, but proper nutrition remains essential. Don't risk health for a lark. Friend who advocates otherwise is misinformed. Some of your fondest wishes can become realities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Check time points read between the lines and be aware of subtle nuances. Leo and Aquarius individuals could play prominent roles. One in authority may not have legal right to grant you special concession.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Change is foretold in form of transformed ideas, travel, communication with one who had been incommunicado. Gemini and Virgo could play featured roles. Take careful steps, but do take them.

I wrote my auto insurer, the Government Employees Insurance Co., last July to get my policy cancelled. I expected not only to discontinue the insurance but to get a refund. To date I have had no refund. I'm not even sure the policy is cancelled. Please check.

—B.K., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: A check with the national office of the firm indicates that you have apparently been caught in a paper bungle.

Without going into a mass of detail, they just said your refund check, in the amount you expected to get, is on its way.

Following my senior year at Nebraska Wesleyan University (1967) I was named to the College All-American Track Team. Despite many letters since then, I have yet to receive my award. Your help would be appreciated (that's putting it mildly.)

—Tom Bassett, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Coach Steve Simmons in the sports department of California Polytechnic in San Luis Obispo, Calif., says that your certificate is in the mail.

Apparently your correspondence never made it through to him, but ours did. After Simmons returned from participation in the Olympics in Germany, he got to it.

Congratulations, Plainsman, just five years late.

We live near a new subdivision which is being wired for electricity. While wires in the new area will be underground, the lines leading to the new houses will be going over our property.

We would like underground wiring and are even willing to pay for it. But they've already put up supports for the overhead lines. Can you help?

—L.G., Lincoln

ACTION LINE: According to Ron Reutzel, Lincoln Electric System (LES) underground project engineer, the wiring now going to the newer houses is urgently needed. Therefore it will be run in temporarily over your property.

Reutzel knows that you want underground wiring but the project has a lower priority since you already have electricity. He says LES is swamped with projects this fall and it may be next spring before they can redo your power lines.

The National Bank of Commerce (NBC) has a TV ad with a treehouse in it that I would like to copy. Where is this house located?

—Rodney Jones, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: NBC had the ad made here in Lincoln. The playhouse is the handiwork of realtor Jim Johnson who says he created it without benefit of blue prints or plans — just out of his head.

He says if it would be any help to you, drop by his place at 6601 Summer for a closer look. The structure features a second story playhouse with fire swing and sandbox below. And somewhere in there, says Johnson, is a porch-type swing for the big kids.

At work we were discussing pitchers and I said the spitball was outlawed several years ago. I also said that a pitcher is not allowed to put his fingers to his mouth while pitching. Am I right or wrong?

—Mrs. Carl Finley, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: You're right that the spitball — and all other pitches using foreign substances — was outlawed in both leagues in 1920.

All pitchers at the time who had built their careers on the pitch were allowed to sign a register that would exempt them from the rule until retirement. Some 17 pitchers signed up. The last one, Burleigh Grimes, retired from the major leagues in 1934.

Many pitchers of the era did not think the rule would ever last and did not register their names. And there is considerable debate to this day as to whether the pitch is dead or not.

Pitchers may touch their mouths while pitching, but must then wipe off their hands before touching the ball.

Jack Anderson Slated To Speak On UNL Campus

"A muckraker with a mission" is the way "Newsweek" (April 3, 1972) described syndicated columnist Jack Anderson who will speak on the University of Nebraska-Lincoln campus Thursday at 3:30 p.m. in the Centennial Room of the Nebraska Union.

Anderson's column, which is printed in 746 newspapers including The Lincoln Star and is read by more than 50 million readers, provides more average American people with a view of the federal government than any other newspaper column. Since 1969 when Anderson inherited the Merry-Go-Round column from the late Drew Pearson, he has exposed numerous controversial matters concerning the Federal government.

One of the most controversial issues was the ITT case in which the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. was charged with contributing a large amount of money to the Republican party so that it should be granted favors for its business interests.

The public is welcome to hear Anderson speak.

Toy Exhibit Cancelled

The toys by artists exhibition which was scheduled to be shown at the Sheldon Art Gallery from Oct. 31 to Nov. 12 has been cancelled.

Spring Term Applications Deadline Extended By NU

The Dec. 15 deadline for completing spring semester applications to the University of Nebraska has been extended to Jan. 15, the University Systems office announced.

The extension applies to the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and the University of Nebraska at Omaha campuses, but not to the Medical Center.

Spring semester classes begin at Lincoln on Jan. 17 at Omaha on Jan. 18.

Prospective freshman applicants who have not completed an entrance examination (SAT or ACT) or have not registered for a December examination should contact a University Examination Service to arrange for on-campus testing. Addresses and test dates for the examinations:

January 11 — UN-L Examination Service, Seaton Hall 1222, Lincoln Nebraska, 68508.

January 13 — UNO Counseling and Testing Office, Administration 213, Omaha, Nebraska 68132.

Applications for admission should be obtained from either campus's admissions office and filed immediately.

Fishermen On Rise

New York — The number of salt-water fishermen has increased by more than a million since 1965.

Poet Mona Van Duyn To Visit UNL Wednesday

Contemporary American poet Mona Van Duyn of St. Louis, Missouri will visit the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Nov. 1.

Ms. Van Duyn will present a poetry reading in the Andrews Hall Library (Andrews 227) at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The co-founder of the literary quarterly "Prospective", she has published three volumes of poetry. Her latest book, "To See, To Take", won the 1971 National Book Award for Poetry.

The poetry reading will be followed by an informal discussion. Both the reading and the discussion are open to the public.

Ms. Van Duyn's appearance on campus is sponsored by the Department of English.

Wednesday Deadline Set For Lancaster Manor Administrator Applications

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County Commissioners agreed Tuesday that no further applications for administrator or management of Lancaster Manor will be accepted after Wednesday and that a decision should be made at next week's board meeting.

The commissioners indicated Tuesday afternoon that two other calls had been received from interested parties and that those who had made contact could still apply.

Three more persons appeared at the meeting Tuesday expressing an interest in the administration of the county nursing facility which has been operating without an administrator since the agreement with Colonial Homes, Inc. for operation of Lancaster

Manor was terminated last Friday.

Those who appeared Tuesday were: Robert Steffen, who said he had 14 years' experience in the nursing home field; June Garber, who was an administrator of a nursing home in Oklahoma prior to moving to Lincoln, and Virginia Sieckmeyer, who said she had worked in a nursing home.

In other business, the board voted to submit for bids the county's health and accident insurance program for county employees.

The commissioners had indicated earlier that such action should be sought since the current carrier, Businessman's Assurance had notified them of a 14% increase in the premium.

A request from some county officials and petitions signed by county employees that no charge be made were received.

The commissioners asked that the proposals be submitted by Dec. 1 to the County Employees Association President Roy Ostrander and be reviewed by a CEA review board which will make recommendations to the county board.

Officials said that the foundation will train volunteer help involved in the LOMR program as well as a volunteer coordinator.

Rowland Defends South Dakota Delegation

Newcastle (UPI) — The South Dakota congressional delegation is not to blame for loss of federal funding for a massive river bank stabilization project on the Missouri River, Earl Rowland of Newcastle said Tuesday.

Rowland, president of the Missouri River Bank Stabilization Association, said Herbert Klein, White House communications director, was wrong Monday in fixing the blame for the lack of money on the South Dakota delegation.

Rowland said he was going to write a letter to Klein and would emphasize that congressmen from South Dakota worked hard for the stabilization program. He said President Nixon is to blame for the unfavorable turn of events because in an effort to hold down spending, the president vetoed the 1972 rivers and harbors act.

That bill included appropriations for the bank stabilization work and also for moving the Nebraska community of Niobrara, which has been victimized by flood waters many times.

Klein, in an address in South Dakota Monday, said the South Dakota congressional delegation could "have gotten the (stabilization) work done had they been more in accord with moving forward in a vigorous way in Congress."

As things now stand,

Rowland said, the project is at least several months from getting underway, assuming that the 1973 Congress would act on the measure that soon.

The board also approved an agreement between the Lancaster Office of Mental Retardation (LOMR) and the Nebraska Human Resources Research Foundation for the foundation to provide 12 hours of consultation services at a

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

H. L. Harmon Pleads Guilty On 2 Counts

By The Associated Press

As the result of plea bargaining, Harmon Lee Harmon, 30, has pleaded guilty in Lancaster District Court to two felony charges of robbery and kidnapping. The charges grow out of unrelated incidents.

The kidnapping charge stemmed from a September, 1971, incident when Harmon used another inmate's identification to escape from the city jail. He was accused of going to the home of a Lincoln couple, Chester and Gladys Park, and forcing them to drive him to Omaha.

Harmon was arrested this summer near Ketchum, Okla., and was returned to Lincoln.

Harmon was charged initially with kidnapping "by threat to do injury," which could have brought a life term. But the injury-unrelated portion of the complaint was dropped.

District Court Judge Herbert Ronin said the plea bargaining involved a recommendation from the county attorney that Harmon not be sentenced to more than a total of 20 years on the charges.

Harmon could withdraw the guilty pleas if the bargain is not kept.

Regents Asked To Modify 2 Sections Of Bylaws

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner will recommend that the Board of Regents modify the two sections of the proposed new university bylaws which prompted the most negative reaction from the NU faculty, The Lincoln Star has learned.

Neither of the changes would restore the original language, but both apparently have satisfied faculty spokesmen from the three university campuses.

Varner's recommendations were outlined in an Oct. 27 memo to the members of the board. A copy of the memo was obtained by The Star.

"Substantial Dissent"

In the memo, Varner told the board that he met with faculty spokesmen on Oct. 26 and heard "substantial dissent on two modifications we made in the bylaws."

"At the heart of their argument," he said, "is the deep concern for the protection of academic freedom, and they believe that the actions we took on Page 95 and again on Pages 106 and 107 pose a serious threat."

"I reassured them that the Board of Regents and the central administration stand totally in support of academic freedom as described in the proposed bylaws and that the modifications we made were in no way intended to violate this commitment."

Rights Spelled Out

The page references are to sections of the bylaws which define academic freedom and which spell out the rights of nontenured teachers faced with nonrenewal of their yearly contracts.

"After a good deal of discussion, we worked out what I believe is a reasonable solution to their concerns and which, at the same time, will protect the freedom of the regents to do what seems appropriate," Varner told the board.

Varner said he had agreed to recommend that the board restore on Page 95 the language which had said faculty members could not suffer sanctions because of their exercise of academic freedom and delete a regents-added clause which had made reference to the "Civil Rights Act."

Not Satisfied

Several faculty members said last week, after the board's modifications became public, that civil rights legislation does not satisfy the traditional right to academic freedom.

Varner also said the faculty members agreed to leave as modified by the board the language on Pages 106 and 107, but to alter Page 111 to permit any faculty member the right to file "any grievance" with the campus grievance committee.

The University Governance Commission, which drafted the version of the bylaws sent to the regents, had included a section to permit a nontenured professor the right to petition the campus academic freedom and tenure committee if he believed his academic freedom were violated.

That was a right deleted in the regents' version.

Although Varner's recommendation would not change the board's language in that regard, it would permit a nontenured professor to petition the grievance committee if he believed his academic freedom were violated.

The bylaws as tentatively approved by the board say specifically that the grievance committee may not consider a violation of academic freedom allegation.

The faculty's specific concern, the Varner memo says, "was that a nontenured faculty member not being recommended for reappointment might genuinely believe that he was not being reappointed because of his exercise of academic freedom."

"Quite Agreeable"

"They believed in any such case he should have an opportunity to have someone hear his concern. They were quite agreeable to having this referred to the grievance committee," said Varner.

While such a provision would not permit such a professor a full-fledged hearing with the academic freedom and tenure committee, it would permit him to be heard by the grievance committee, which would be able to direct a reconsideration of a nonreappointment recommendation.

The faculty spokesmen who met with Varner apparently agreed to a board deletion of a bylaws provision that would have permitted a nontenured professor the right to be informed of the reasons for his nonreappointment.

The spokesmen were believed to be members of an inter-campus faculty committee which meets regularly with the president.

Flags Lowered For Nebraskan Killed In Asia

Gov. J. J. Exon said Tuesday flags on the State Capitol and governor's mansion would fly at half-staff Wednesday in honor of a Nebraska serviceman who died in Vietnam.

The Defense Department said last week that Navy

Airman Apprentice Robert W. Haakenson was one of four persons killed last Tuesday aboard the Aircraft Carrier Midway in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Haakenson, 19, was survived by his mother, Mrs. Jennie L. Tesch of Omaha. The government said he was the 417th Nebraskan to die in the Vietnam war.

Haakenson, an aviation mechanic, was killed when a fighter-bomber's landing gear failed and the jet crashed onto the Midway's deck.

NU Officials Working To Assess The Fiscal Impact Of Less Revenue

University of Nebraska officials are working this week to assess the fiscal impact of less-than-anticipated tuition revenue this fall at campuses in Lincoln and Omaha.

Two factors appear to be at work, according to NU Vice President Howard Neville.

One, he said, is a student credit hour production level which apparently fell below estimates at both the University of Nebraska-Lincoln (UNL) and at the University of Nebraska at Omaha (UNO).

And the other, he said, is LB400, the legislative bill which liberalized the state's resident tuition policies.

NU President D. B. Varner estimated last summer that the impact of that law in the current academic year might mean a loss of tuition revenue of as much as $200,000.

Neville said Tuesday it appeared "a larger number of students have changed their registration from nonresident to resident than we expected."

NU officials admitted last summer that estimating impact of the law was mostly guesswork.

The law permits students who have lived in Nebraska a year and who establish residency here the right to become resident students for tuition purposes. Formerly, the law had required a person to be a Nebraska citizen for at least four months, but he could not be a student during that time.

The credit hour production factor indicates that students are not registering for as many hours as the university had anticipated.

At UNL, for example, there are more students this year, but they are taking fewer hours.

At UNO, students are apparently taking more "free hours," the hours between 13 and 16 which students may take for the tuition charged for 12 hours.

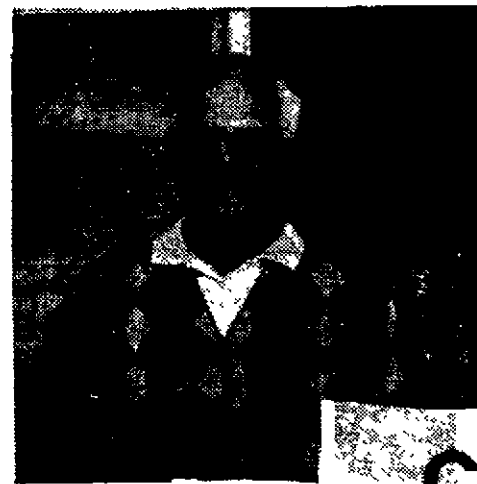

Neville said NU is at work to assess the fiscal impact of the tuition picture by the time the Board of Regents meets Nov. 10.

He estimated that the UNO campus may be facing a situation similar to last year's, when the regents revised the budget to make up for some $490,000 in tuition income below estimates.

Public Employees Union Supporting Sens. Swanson, Warner

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The 1,500-member Nebraska Association of Public Employees (NAPE) through its political arm has endorsed in the Nov. 7 election the candidacies of Sen. William Swanson and Sen. Jerome Warner for the Unicameral.

However, in the 29th Legislative District contest between Sen. Fern Orme and Mrs. Shirley Marsh NAPE has taken no position, according to NAPE's executive secretary Linville Prall.

The association, representing mainly state employees, also has backed the candidacies of seven other candidates for the Legislature and one contender for the State Board of Education in the October issue of the "Watchdog." The candidates endorsed were chosen through the Nebraska Political Action Committee, an extension of NAPE created in August. The selections were made by Prall; NAPE's legal counsel, Doug Marti; and a third member of the committee.

Through membership dues and a loan, Prall said the political action committee has contributed roughly $400 to candidates and organizations in the upcoming election. He said $50 was given to the Nebraskaans for Better Government Committee and the remaining $350 was distributed among five legislative candidates.

Prall declined to identify the five candidates because he said they might not prefer to have it revealed in the press. He did say they are "of liberal thought" and from the eastern, metropolitan areas of the state.

In the future, he said, the Nebraska Political Action Committee may be able to contribute more substantially to candidates it favors.

The other seven legislative candidates receiving endorsements are Gary Anderson of Axtell, who is running for the seat vacated by Sen. Wayne Ziebarth; Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha; Sen.

Orval Keyes of Springfield; Sen. Irving Wiltse of Falls City; Sen. Leslie Scull of Alliance; Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg; and John R. Murphy of South Sioux City, who is challenging an Exon appointee, Sen. LeRoy Pfister.

Walter Moller of Wayne was also backed for the State Board of Education from the Third District.

Prall said there are candidates in other legislative races which the organization is backing; however, he said there was not sufficient room in the issue to include them.

Beef Short In Brazil

Brasilia — For many years Brazil has experienced seasonal beef shortages that have sent prices soaring to record levels although the cattle herd is estimated at 97.1 million head, the world's third largest — after the United States and the U.S.S.R.

G.I. Bill Recipients To Get More

G. I. Bill recipients will receive checks averaging nearly $450 during November as a result of an increase in their educational assistance allowances.

Harry W. Piper, director, Veterans Administration Regional Office in Lincoln, said that VA computer personnel are making "every effort" to complete the necessary changes to get the checks out near the first of November.

Piper said that the new law — which was approved by the President Oct. 24 — permits the VA to make the monthly payments to students in advance rather than at the end of each month of schooling.

As a result, November checks will include both the November advance and the October payment, as well as the retroactive increase for those enrolled in schools during the month of September.

December checks and all subsequent checks will be paid at the new rate at the first of the month.

In addition to increasing allowances and authorizing advance payment, Piper pointed out the following changes in the law:

—Rules on tutoring are liberalized to make it easier for students in need of tutoring to qualify for a special allowance.

—New protection is provided for those who sign up for correspondence courses.

—Eligible wives, widows and children under the Dependent's Educational Assistance Program are given broader latitude in choosing training programs to include on-the-job training and enrollment in foreign institutions of higher learning. Tutoring for those who need it is also included, and correspondence courses and high school courses are available for wives and widows.

—Women veterans may now claim their husbands as dependents in order to qualify for higher benefits on the same basis as married male veterans. Widowers of female veterans will now receive the same training rights as widows.

—Lump sum payments of allowances is authorized for wives, widows and children enrolled in educational programs on less than half-time basis.

Tiny Mask A Charm

Nairobi, Kenya — In some African tribes' initiation ceremonies a youth puts on a mask representing the ghost of his past life. When he casts it aside, this symbolizes the death of his childhood. Then he is given a miniature ivory mask to wear as a charm against misfortune.

WARNING!

This Sears MULTI-SPEED Belt Massager with Lighted Switch May be Unsafe...

Only Model 449.29110 (Sears only model with a light), sold from December, 1969 until taken off sale October 4, 1972, is affected.

In order to prevent possible injury to any user, we are requesting that you:

1. Unplug unit.
2. Verify that the model is 449.29110—located on a name plate which is on the underside of the motor housing.
3. If you have model number 449.29110, call your closest Sears store and a service man will come to your home to inspect and modify the unit.
4. Do not reconnect the plug until the unit has been modified.

THERE IS NO PROBLEM WITH ANY OTHER SEARS BELT MASSAGER.

This notice is being issued as a result of tests which indicate the possibility that some of these massagers may involve a potentially dangerous electric shock hazard if someone should touch the massager while touching a water pipe, radiator, faucet or other ground connection.

Private Lenders Provide 40% Of Rural Electric Loans

Appeal Heard On Services At Academies

Washington (AP) — The government appealed to the Supreme Court to uphold compulsory chapel attendance at three U.S. military academies.

"No cadet or midshipman is required to believe what he hears," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said in seeking a reversal of a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court here.

"No one is subjected to a catechism by governmental authority.

"But all students are required to gain an appreciation of our moral and religious heritage," Griswold argued in a brief.

The chapel rule was declared unconstitutional in a 2-1 decision by the Circuit Court last June. Chief Judge David Bazelon wrote that it violates the First Amendment's admonition that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion."

Mrs. Smith Raps Carpenter Tactics

Republican National Committeewoman Patricia Lahr Smith Tuesday said Democratic senatorial nominee Terry Carpenter's tactics of "scolding" voters will not work in Nebraska.

"It's a tactic sometimes directed against masses of uninformed or poorly informed voters in congested metropolitan areas," Mrs. Smith said.

"I predict it will not work in Nebraska. The voters of Nebraska make it a point to inform themselves of the issues in elections. They will not be fooled."

NU Coed Gets Maytag Stipend

A senior in the College of Business Administration at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, Debrah D. Gustafson of Aurora, has been awarded a $500 scholarship by the Maytag Company Foundation.

Miss Gustafson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Myron J. Gustafson of Aurora. She is studying marketing and maintains a high scholastic average.

MAN AT WORK

Congressman Charles THONE for Rural Electrification Administrator David Hamil said Tuesday.

Until 1971, rural electric systems depended solely on REA for new financing.

But now the systems are "moving on to a broad new road of financing which can handle your rapidly growing needs," Hamil told a regional meeting of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

In its first full year of use, the new financing system provided a record $751 million in long-term financing, Hamill noted. REA provided more than $436 million of that total.

"There can be no doubt that fiscal 1972 was the most successful and progressive year in REA history," he said.

"We used the new financing lanes open to us to help borrowers meet unprecedented demands for rural electric and telephone service."

And loan applications indicate that 1972 growth will exceed that of 1971. Clearly, Hamil said, "rural America is growth country."

But there are hazards ahead, Hamil warned.

Among them: higher interest rates on money borrowed from private lenders, increased wholesale power costs and environmental problems.

Action is needed to "counteract attempts to roll the electric industry and public back into the dark ages under the pretext of saving the environment," he said.

Delegates from Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas and Wyoming attending the three-day regional meeting in Lincoln. All together, they represented 1.3 million rural electric consumers in those states.

International Studies Directors To Meet

Directors of institutes for Latin American and international studies at 22 universities across the nation will meet Nov. 3-4 in the Nebraska Center at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Dr. Melvin George, dean of the University's College of Arts and Sciences, will welcome the group at 9:15 a.m. Friday.

During the sessions Friday and Saturday, the directors will discuss various facets of federal support of Latin American area studies, according to Dr. Roberto Equeñazi-Mayo, director of the university's Institute of International Studies.

The conference is being sponsored by the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, the University of Kansas, and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Know Your Antiques

Political candidates literally helped you on a rainy day in early campaigns. McKinley and Hobart ran in the campaign in 1896. The red, white, and blue cloth umbrella was a campaign give-away. (From the book "Hail to the Chief" by James Kahler, Pyne Press, 1972).

BY RALPH AND TERRY KOVEL

In the strange rules of collecting, it is the candidate with the least money and scarcest campaign materials that causes the most excitement. Supply and demand more than any other factor determines the worth of a political campaign item.

Age indicates a degree of rarity because the earlier candidates for president had less voters to please. The first of the campaign buttons and mementos as we know them today dates from the 1824 Jackson-Adams campaign. A few medals and pins had appeared earlier. The portraits were pinback sulphides, printed ribbons, or medals.

After the death of Harrison in 1841, 32 days after inauguration, it became important to consider the vice president. His picture often appeared with the presidential candidate.

The ferrotype badge appeared by 1860. It was a photograph on iron mounted in a brass rim. The celluloid button was made by the 1896 campaign.

Campaigns of the past century had more exciting materials than those today. Full size umbrellas emblazoned with the candidate's picture, canes, lanterns, printed bandanna handkerchiefs, glass lamp chimneys, paper collars, soap, door stops, bottles, watch fobs, buttons for dresses, banks, toys, and many others. This year, the new items include plastic litter bags, coloring books, rain bonnets, antenna pennants, emery boards and even lettuce cartons.

This year, the wise campaign collector will look for any item showing Senator Eagleton, foreign language or obviously ethnic oriented buttons and banners, and any specialty items such as watches or jewelry or printed fabrics or dresses that would appear in only a few parts of the United States. Even more desirable would be special invitations, badges or mementos of the nominating conventions or the inaugural.

Q—My son dug up about 15 old bottles. I cleaned them by soaking them in warm ammonia water for 24 hours. Cracks ran through some of the glass. Others had large chunks of glass break off. Four of the bottles were ruined. How should I clean dug bottles?

A—Glass is fragile and it can break even with the best care. When a bottle has been buried, it has been subjected to many kinds of stress. Just exposing a cool bottle to the hot sun on digging day may crack it. To clean bottles, let them stand for at least 24 hours until they become room temperature. Wash the bottles in warm, not hot, water with a detergent. Hold the bottle underwater until it fills, then soak it for several hours. A baby bottle brush will help clean the inside.

It is sometimes necessary to fill the bottle with lead shot and soapy water and shake it. This helps to remove interior stains.

Some kinds of stains will not clean off. The cloudy look caused by interior deterioration can not be washed away. The iridescent look of exposed bottles cannot be removed, but it does add charm.

Display old bottles in a place where the temperature is average. Hot sunny windows can often cause cracking.

Q—"Evans and Allen-Pure Coin" is stamped on my spoon.

A—These men sold silver spoons in Binghamton, N.Y. about 1850.

CHIT-CHAT with Roxi

Dear Roxi:
I've got the frizzies. Boy, have I got the frizzies! I think I have tried every shampoo on the market and none of them have helped. What can I do to stop my frizzies?

A. The easiest and most effective way of stopping the frizzies is to have your hair trimmed every six to eight weeks about a half inch. This will keep you from getting new split ends.

Dear Roxi:

My boyfriend and I broke up about three months ago after I found out that he was dating my best friend behind my back. Well, guess what, he and his girlfriend have broken up and now he wants to know if we could start dating again. Should I, I mean he really hurt me, but I still like him.

A. My advice is don't start dating him again, unless you want to be hurt again. This type of boy is loser all the way. He uses people and treat them any way he sees fit and whether or not he hurts you is no concern of his. Simply tell lover boy to look someplace else, you aren't interested.

Dear Roxi:

I am on diet and I still have quite a bit to lose. That is what scares me. I'm losing my willpower. My craving for sweets is slowly, but surely coming back. Help!

A. Well, since you've gone this far, there's no sense in blowing it at the last minute. When you want something sweet grab for a piece of fruit instead. It fills you up and does no damage.

Lo, The Radish!

Something brand new in the way of a magazine is about to put in an appearance in the magazine racks. Its name is "Epicure" and, according to all of the fine print on the index page, it is a CBS publication, and is a quarterly.

But "Epicure" has nothing to do with the CBS so familiar to everyone's ears and eyes. Epicure is a magazine that deals with the cuisine. It is filled with recipes that range from haute cuisine quickies to the lowly radish. The radish, however, is not considered "lowly" in Epicure.

There is a recipe for "Souffle Briochin," for example. In addition to the butter, the flour, the milk, the egg yolks, the egg whites and the salt and pepper, the other ingredient—and the main one, is the radish—eight or 12 of them finely grated.

If one is not disposed toward the fancy souffle, there is another recipe for buttery-boiled radishes. This one is simple since all you need are two bunches of radishes, cleaned and trimmed; 1 tablespoon of butter, salt, pepper and sugar.

You boil the radishes in enough water to cover them until they are just tender—but still firm. Epicure says this takes about five minutes. Then you drain them—add the butter, salt, pepper, and sugar to taste—and gently mix over low heat.

Seriously, Epicure is quite a magazine—it illustrates the proper way to carve meats, to bone fish and fowl—and it has dozens and dozens of delightful, different and delicious recipes. It should be a success.

For years, at least since repeal, it has been the custom of Americans to precede a dinner with a cocktail hour. This period is spent in consuming large portions of high-proof liquors in one form or another. It is not unusual for some Americans to indulge themselves with several Martinis—each one just leaded with calories. Not only does this indulgence ruin the appetite but it makes all food taste like sawdust, since drinks with a high alcohol base dull the taste—an incontrovertible scientific fact. Small wonder then that these heavy drinkers, instead of whetting their appetites actually destroy their desire for food.

Americans returning from overseas trips bring with them some of the European eating and drinking customs. Among the most enjoyable of these customs is the practice of enjoying an "aperitif" before dining.

An aperitif—the European term for a drink preceding a meal—is a real appetite provoking drink. It is intended to and actually serves as a spur to enjoyable dining. The Europeans describe this form of drinking as: "preparing the tummy for the goodies to come;" and it certainly does.

There are number of "aperitif" drinks and their popularity varies with countries in which they are enjoyed; but the custom is an almost universal one—that is, except in the United States where an affinity for the "strong stuff" prevails.

Perhaps the most popular of all aperitifs is Vermouth. Vermouth is not a wine. It is wine based but it undergoes so many additions and manipulations that it ceases to be recognizable as the product of the vine. There are a number of different Vermouths but the most popular is the dry—sometimes called French Vermouth and the sweet generally referred to as Italian Vermouth. In this country dry Vermouth is an important ingredient in Martinis and sweet Vermouth is the additive to whiskey in the preparation of a Manhattan. Americans ordering a Martini for the first time in Europe are surprised to find their drink is prepared without gin—just Vermouth—one must request a gin Martini to get one.

Dubonnet is another very popular aperitif both in Europe and in America. This is a dark red, proprietary French drink made of a sweetened wine base with bitter bark and quinine to impart the characteristic taste. It is now also being made in both England and America and includes a white variety.

A very delicious and popular European aperitif is Campari Bitter Apertivo—an Italian preparation. It is just great mixed with gin or sweet Vermouth; and a most pleasant drink with soda and a twist of lemon.

Perhaps the most unusual of all aperitifs is the Italian Cynar—the only drink made entirely from artichokes. It is in fact, the most popular aperitif in the country of its origin. As with many aperitifs Cynar may be enjoyed in many ways: on the rocks, with soda or with orange juice.

Americans, in ever increasing numbers, seem to enjoy Sherry as an aperitif. The most popular of these is the dry or cocktail sherry. A particularly fine Sherry selling near the price of a domestic is the Bodegas Alberti Solera 1896. Probably the best domestic sherry is Beringers Fino Cocktail made at a vineyard which has been in continuous production since 1876.

Party Honoree Is Bride-Elect

October has rolled up its professional aisle carpets and has stored its wedding bells in a safe place for another year. But November is opening the door, and is bringing with it plenty of replacements in the way of wedding decor.

Each year the number of November brides increases, and 1972 has its full quota.

One of the November bride-elect is Miss Janis Ann Meyers whose marriage to Charles Bridges will take place on Saturday, Nov. 25.

On Sunday afternoon Miss Bridges was complimented at a party and miscellaneous shower for which Miss Jo Ann Andreas, Miss Nancy Lococo, Miss Patrice Johnson, Miss Susan Arrigo and Miss Ann Meyers were hostesses at Shondele's Restaurant.

to right, are Mrs. Ronald Meyers of Columbus; Mrs. William Meyers, Mrs. James Arrigo and Mrs. Lonnie Meyers, both grandmothers of the bride-to-be; the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Mc Meyers and Miss Lococo.

Girl Scouts Alter By-Laws

One of the major changes made in the Girl Scout by-laws during the National Council's convention held recently in Dallas, Tex., was co-sponsored by the Homestead Council.

The proposal which would allow Senior Girl Scouts 14 years of age, and older, to vote and to be elected as delegates, was introduced by Mrs. James Wessner, president of the local council. Also speaking on behalf of the measure were members of the

Santa Clara, Calif., Council

Also representing Homestead Council at the triennial meeting were delegates, Mrs. Ray Rezak, first vice president; and Mrs. Doris Steele, the council's executive director. Representing Senior scouts at the convention were two University of Nebraska freshmen, Miss Karen McCaw and Miss Kathy Jewell, who served as non-voting senior participants.

New, Serious Questions Raised

By The Associated Press

Washington — A report by the staff of the House Banking Committee raised new and serious questions Tuesday about possible violations of campaign financing law, banking and tax laws in connection with several large contributions to the committee for the re-election of the President.

This was the second staff report based on investigation into the break-in and bugging of the Democratic National Committee headquarters last June and possible financial irregularities in fund collection.

Following the first report on Sept. 12, Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., twice sought his committee's approval for the use of subpoenas to elicit information. He was twice refused.

Hampered

In the report Tuesday the staff complained that its investigators had been hampered by lack of subpoena power.

Nevertheless, the staff reported these new findings: From Washington and Philadelphia bank records, the staff said, it had discovered that before April 7, the date after which campaign donations would have to be reported under the new campaign financing law, "at least $30,000" had been channeled to President Nixon's campaign fund "through the Banque Internationale a Luxembourg."

The report said Nixon's re-election committee "has successfully hidden the names of the donors of these additional foreign checks." The origins should be explored, the staff said, because any contribution by foreign nationals would be a violation of the law.

With respect to the $100,000 that has been previously traced from Houston, to Mexico, back to Houston and then to Washington in what has become dubbed "the Mexican laundering operation," the staff report hinted that the money may have been corporate gifts because "it originated in a corporate account in Houston, Tex."

Account 99-600

The staff head learned, the report said, "that on April 3 the $100,000 had been transferred by telephone from the account of the Gulf Resources and Chemical Corp. in the First City National Bank of Houston" to Account Number 99-600 in the Banco Internacional de Mexico City.

Bookkeeping Errors Found

Washington (UPI) — The General Accounting Office said Tuesday that review of the financial operations of various McGovern for president committees has uncovered bookkeeping errors, but no problems that merit referral to the Justice Department.

The GAO review and audit covered a number of complaints by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., the GOP national chairman.

In a report issued by the Office of Federal Elections, the GAO said many accounting problems found during an earlier audit of the McGovern for President D.C. Committee were corrected by use of an improved records system under supervision of an accounting firm.

This account is assigned to Compania de Asuero Veracruz, S.A., a Gulf subsidiary that was placed on the "inactive" list by the Securities and Exchange Committee in late 1969.

"This raises an obvious question — why would Gulf Resources be transferring large sums to an inactive corporation?" the report said.

The committee staff also reported it had discovered that the $305,000 contributed to the Nixon campaign fund by Walter T. Duncan, a Texas real estate speculator, was "in the form of a single promissory note" and not in cash or checks.

On Aug. 21, a few days after the donation, Duncan was sued for defaulting on a $2.6 million loan. The loan had been made by an insurance company and a bank controlled by Frank Sharp of Houston, both of which collapsed in a scandal that has shaken Texas politics. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. has been named receiver for the closed bank, which made half the loan.

Big Stake

The FDIC has a large stake in the outcome of the case since hundreds of depositors in the closed bank may not get their funds unless the receiver is able to recover on paid loans such as the one made to Duncan, the report said.

While unable to pay off the $1.3 million owed to a federal agency, the report stated, "Duncan is somewhat able to make a $305,000 contribution in the form of a personal note to the Committee To Re-elect the President."

The staff said it believed "the FDIC should make claim" on the Committee To Re-elect the President and Duncan for "the amount of the note" to the committee.

Three Bodies Found In 'Burying Ground'

Ukiah, Calif. (AP) — Three bodies have been recovered from a rumored 'Hell's Angels' burying ground' and officers are searching for more possible gravesites, officials said Tuesday.

Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger said in Sacramento that the search for the bodies on a tree-screened ranch three miles southwest of here was started "in response to rumors that the area was being used as a Hell's Angels' burying ground."

Younger would not elaborate on his reference to the Hell's Angels, a nationally known California motorcycle club whose members have had frequent clashes with law officers in recent years.

Reno Bartolomei, Mendocino County sheriff, announced discovery of the three bodies in a terse prepared statement. He refused any comment beyond the statement.

Two Arrested

The statement reported the arrest of George J. Wethers, 33, and his wife, Helen, 29, owners of the rolling, brush-covered ranch property 100 miles north of San Francisco.

He said they were booked only on charges of drug and stolen property possession.

The Wethers were arraigned on these charges Tuesday afternoon before Justice Court Judge Hale McCowen Jr., who set bail at $100,000 cash each and scheduled a hearing for Friday.

Bartolomei said a picture of Ralph "Sonny" Barger, former Hell's Angels leader on trial for murder in Oakland, was found in the Wethers' house.

Search Starts

Bartolomei said the search started Monday "for possible burial sites of two murder victims."

"Late in the evening the first burial site was discovered and by 5 p.m. two human bodies had been definitely uncovered," he said.

He reported that excavation of another test hole turned up a third body, "believed to be female."

The sheriff said one body had been positively identified, a second tentatively. He refused to disclose the names.

McGovern Sees Win On Nov. 7

By The Associated Press

Democrat George McGovern said Tuesday he will win next week's presidential election despite a poor position in the public-opinion polls, and the White House announced a closing flurry of radio and television speeches by President Nixon.

Campaigning in Syracuse, McGovern described as inaccurate information a Louis Harris poll in Tuesday's newspapers which showed him trailing Nixon by 28 percentage points.

"We're more convinced than ever that a week from today the people of this country are going to demonstrate that they will not be dictated to by the polls or by anybody else," McGovern said.

McGovern's campaign topic of the day was urban problems and an assertion that Nixon neglects them in favor of Pentagon "boondoggles." He said Nixon "is afraid to stand up to the gold-platers and the big wasters in the Pentagon."

It was McGovern's 29th wedding anniversary, and Mrs. McGovern campaigned with him through New York and New Jersey.

Cross-Country Stops
The White House announced Nixon will wind up his campaign in California after some cross-country stops on the way to the Western White House at San Clemente.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced also that Nixon will make a series of radio and television political broadcasts with a major address to the nation on election eve.

Nixon has rescheduled for Friday the Chicago trip he canceled Tuesday because of the train wreck tragedy there. He will speak at an airport rally at the city's O'Hare Airport.

Also on the schedule are stops in Oklahoma and Rhode Island to boost GOP candidates.

Democratic vice presidential nominee Sargent Shriver said in San Francisco he believes the political part of the Vietnam peace settlement reportedly near signing is virtually unworkable.

Shriver also said the entire agreement represents "a fantastic overprice for what we get."

"I don't see what the difference is between what he (Nixon) announced and what he denounced four years ago," Shriver said. "I don't see the difference between what he's got and what he used to call surrender."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said while campaigning in Michigan that draft dodgers and deserters should suffer "the deprivation of freedom."

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger Tuesday declined to halt trial of a suit seeking to force Nixon's campaign finance committee to identify donors who contributed before April 7.

Burger said the Finance Committee To Re-elect the President would have to depend on the usual post-convention appeal channels. Trial of the suit began earlier Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Washington.

Nebraska Education Summit Set

Hastings (AP) — A sort of "summit meeting" of Nebraska higher education is planned in Grand Island Feb. 1-2.

It would involve governing boards of the University of Nebraska system, state colleges and the newly formed State Technical Community College System, and is being arranged by a steering committee of administrators.

The plans were told by Robert Schleiger, executive secretary of the State Board of Technical Community Colleges, in a report prepared for a board meeting in Hastings Tuesday.

Schleiger said representatives of the state's private colleges will be included in the Grand Island meeting.

Schleiger's prepared report also said there are plans in the works for a Dec. 6 meeting in North Platte for officers or selected members of the NU, state college and community college boards to outline future discussion areas for the three boards.

Moisture In Soil Above State Norm

There's above-average moisture in Nebraska soil this fall, government observers reported Tuesday.

The top four feet of soil contains an average of 4.77 inches of available water, compared with 4.06 inches last year, and a 10-year average of 4.22 inches, according to the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

The survey was conducted from Oct. 12 to 20, and the third and fourth feet of soil were found to be the wettest of record.

Available moisture in the top two feet of soil totaled 2.30 inches, up from last year's 2.07 inches but slightly below the 10-year average of 2.34 inches.

However, the third and fourth feet of soil carried 2.47 inches of water, the most since records began to be kept in 1950.

A check of wheat fields showed height of the plants to average 6.0 inches, compared with 5.7 inches last year and a 10-year average of 5.2 inches.

2 Savings, Loan Firms Apply For Offices In Albion

The State Banking Department reported Tuesday it has received two applications involving savings and loan business operations at Albion.

A hearing has been set for Jan. 3 on an application from the Albion Savings and Loan Association of Albion for a certificate of approval to engage in the building and loan association business at Albion.

The department said a hearing has been set for Jan. 11 on the application of the Equitable Savings and Loan Association of Columbus to establish a branch office in Albion.

Set for Jan. 10 hearing was the application of the Mutual Building and Loan Association of North Platte to establish a branch office at 821 S. Bailey St., North Platte.

Fire Rig Hits Pole, Auto On Run In Omaha

Omaha (AP) — An Omaha fire truck missed a turn Tuesday and crashed into a utility pole and a traffic signal, Omaha police said.

There were no injuries. Fireman Charles F. May said he was driving the 1,250-gallon pumper responding to a fire call. He said the vehicle's wheels locked as he attempted a right turn. The truck skidded sideways, jumping an island.

Police said the rear of the fire truck struck the rear of an automobile stopped at an intersection and a traffic signal was knocked on top of a second automobile.

Fire officials estimated damage to the fire truck at $2,000. Authorities estimated other damage at more than $1,400.

Butz Slated To Speak At Farm Meet

The Nebraska Farmers Union announced Tuesday U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz will speak at the organization's 59th annual convention.

The convention is scheduled to begin Nov. 29 at Kearney and run for three days.

The convention will also feature a panel discussion on international trading of farm commodities with participants from several federal agencies and major farm marketing cooperatives.

The panel moderator will be the newly appointed National Farmers Union Secretary, Robert Lewis.

Another topic to be covered is a study on farm to consumer communications. Taking part in that, the organization said, will be "top public relations people" from the agri-business field, farm cooperative representatives and the news media.

Hart, Family At Odds Over Detention

Omaha (AP) — Omaha Juvenile Court Judge Seward Hart and the family of a 14-year-old boy were at odds Tuesday on whether Judge Hart had ordered the youth held in the Douglas County Youth Center over the weekend.

Judge Hart released the boy from custody Monday after attorneys for the boy's family had appealed his detention to Douglas County District Court.

His release came after a 15-minute hearing Monday in the office of Juvenile Court Referee Donald Fox. Hart signed the release order on Fox's recommendation.

The boy's attorneys claimed the hearing in Fox's office was held on unusually short notice. They said they had not been informed of it until Hart announced it in the district courtroom about 45 minutes before the hearing was to be held.

Hart had been ordered into district court through a subpoena.

Resident Artist, String Quartet To Be Featured

Omaha (AP) — Grant Johannesen, the University of Nebraska artist in residence, and the Pro Arte string quartet, oldest musical organization of its kind in the world, will highlight the biennial convention of the Nebraska Music Teachers' Association in Omaha Nov. 13-14.

Myron Cohen of Omaha, president of the music teachers group, said Johannesen will conduct a piano master class at the Nov. 13 session.

Johannesen will spend seven weeks in Nebraska during the next few months as part of the artist in residence program.

Those attending the convention also will see the Omaha Opera Company's production of "Madame Butterfly."

The association's state auditions for elementary through college level students will be held at Nebraska Wesleyan University in Lincoln on Nov. 12. Winners of the auditions will appear at the state convention the following day in Omaha.

Pollution Charge Lodged Against Gravel Company

A hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday on a complaint filed by the State Environmental Control director against Western Sand and Gravel Co.

The complaint filed by Director James Higgins charges the firm is polluting the Platte River and Fountain Creek in Cass County.

Involving is a gravel mining operation near South Bend. The department contends the operation is silting the two streams, which is in violation of the state's environmental control act.

The hearing is to be held at the department offices located at 1420 P St.

Five Amendments Opposed By Exon

By The Associated Press
Gov. J. J. Exon Tuesday urged Nebraska voters to defeat five of the proposed 16 constitutional amendments in next week's election.

On two others, Exon said he intends to remain neutral, while he said he supports the other nine proposals.

The five opposed by Exon include:

—Amendment One, providing that a person must be at least 21 to serve in the Legislature, rather than 18 years old.

—Amendment Seven, permitting the Legislature to re-classify for tax purposes lands which are not now taxed as agricultural land. Exon called it "special interest legislation designed to aid the developers."

—Amendment Nine, permitting per diem payments to legislators. Exon said it would result in some senators being paid more than others and would make it difficult for citizens to find out what their senators are being paid.

—Amendment 14, removing the state tax commissioner from the Board of Equalization and replacing him with a legislative appointee. According to Exon the commissioner "knows more about taxation than any other person on the board."

—Amendment 15, rewriting conflict of interest standards. Exon said the change would permit senators to resign to accept appointments and would be "a step backwards."

The governor explained he is neutral on Amendment Three, permitting the Legislature to set its own salaries, and Amendment Eight, providing for legislators to be covered by the state retirement system.

On the question of legislative pay, Exon said, "that is a matter between the senators and the people."

The governor said he intends to vote for the remainder of the amendments.

Economy Leaps

Tehran — Iran has one of the world's fastest-growing economies, with its gross national product rising at an annual rate of 13% and its industrial production 17%.

BERG CAMPAIGN SIGNS . . . displayed by supporters in downtown Lincoln.

Berg Boosters Greet Rush-Hour Motorists

About 80 supporters of First District Democratic Congressional candidate Darrell Berg surprised rush-hour motorists Tuesday morning by displaying Berg for Congress signs along heavily-traveled streets.

The signs caught motorists by surprise and caused several kinds of reactions, according to Pauline Anderson, campaign coordinator.

State Chairman Hess Dyas, who was among the workers, was offered a cup of coffee, Mrs. Anderson said. And another worker who had forgotten her gloves was given a pair of gloves.

Mrs. Anderson said she and some other workers were asked by police not to show their signs while on public property. Mrs. Anderson said she retreated but that some workers just stepped off of public property.

'Gas Shortage' Talk Comes Under Fire

The general manager of the American Public Gas Association said Tuesday claims of natural gas shortages stem not from proven fact but from attempts to gain higher rates from the consumer.

"The 'gas shortage' campaign of the industry is an attempt to acquire larger unwarranted profits beyond a just and reasonable rate from the American consumers who must pay increased gas bills," said Gerald Wheatley Jr.

Addressing the American Public Power Association Workshop, the official noted the industry claims there are enough known reserves for only 60 years of consumption at present rates.

However, he said, the U.S. Geological Survey estimates there is enough gas to be found to last another 240 years.

Another reason being given for higher consumer rates, Wheatley noted, is high production costs.

However, he said, test cases in Louisiana indicate it cost less to produce gas in 1969 than it did in 1960.

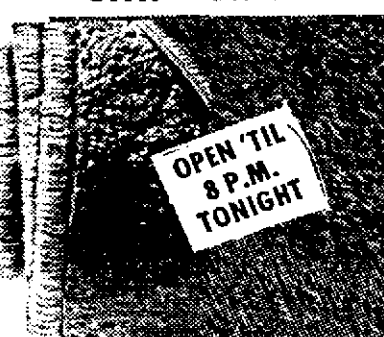

Homes Vandalized

Lincoln Police reported that vandals caused about $950 worth of damage when they broke storm doors and windows at the sites of three homes being built by the Belmont Construction Co. The houses are located at 1701 Knox, 1621 Knox and 1731 Knox, according to police reports.

Pony Outspeeds Mail

Washington (AP) — James H. Boren, a professional bureaucrat who leaps tall problems in a single rhetorical bound, demonstrated Tuesday that he is faster than a speeding postal service.

Boren's latest spoof-with-a-point involved his own horseback mail system, NATAPROBU Pony Express, named for the acronym of his tongue-in-cheek organization, the National Association of Professional Bureaucrats.

With six horses and eight riders, Boren set out from Philadelphia Monday after placing some 75 letters in U.S. Postal Service boxes around town.

The portly mail rider cantered into view at the Capitol shortly after noon Tuesday, well ahead of most of the letters he sent via the more usual method.

"Give me that old time delivery, it's good enough for me," Boren sang out in a horseback news conference held near the center of busy Constitution Avenue.

Profit Made By U.S. Steel

New York (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's largest steel company, reported Tuesday it made a profit of $30.9 million in the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared to a loss of $21.46 million in the same period last year.

Sales for the quarter were up from $1.06 billion to $1.34 billion, and earnings per share were put at 57 cents, compared to a loss of 39 cents a share for third-quarter 1971.

Army Officer Detained In Syria Given Release

Beirut (AP) — A U.S. Army officer detained by Syrian authorities since Sept. 9 was released Tuesday night in Damascus.

Diplomatic sources said the officer — Maj. Richard Barratt, 36, of Laramie, Wyo. — would be brought to Beirut to rejoin his wife and small child and then would proceed to Washington for debriefing.

The sources declined to elaborate on the conditions of Barratt's release. He was the assistant military attache in Amman, Jordan, and was detained in Syria while on his way from there to Beirut.

His arrest occurred the day after an Israeli air raid on southern Syria launched in retaliation for the killing of 11 Israeli Olympic team members in Munich by Arab terrorists.

European diplomats had suggested Barratt was doing more than passing through Syria. But no reason was given for the arrest.

Inmates Free Prison Guard

Sullwater, Minn. (AP) — A Minnesota State Prison guard was released unharmed Tuesday after 4½ hours of negotiations between prison officials and rebellious inmates who took him hostage at knife-point.

The guard was jumped by three inmates in the prison's maximum security wing at midmorning. Officials said the trio then unlocked the cells of 26 other inmates, but 14 men refused to go along and returned to their cells voluntarily.

A prison spokesman said the inmates were returned to their cells after the negotiating session and the prison was calm.

Charles A. Tuller Hated His Father

The New York Times
New York — When he was about 9 years old, Charles A. Tuller, the former Commerce Department official now wanted for murder and hijacking, was taking his 4-year-old brother across a New Jersey highway to join their father.

The younger child, lagging a bit, was hit by a trailer truck and killed.

Tuller's father, who had gone looking for his sons when he did not find them home, accused the 9-year-old boy of having killed his brother. On his death bed, the senior Tuller told Charles, who was then 19.

"I never forgave you and I never will."

Since the day of the tragedy Charles Tuller, now 49, who is in Cuba with a son and two other alleged accomplices in last Sunday's hijacking has hated his father passionately.

Disclosed

This painful threat in the life of a man soured in connection with three murders as well as air piracy and attempted bank robbery was disclosed Tuesday by Edward J. Dwight Jr. He is a former Air Force captain who was the first black to be picked for space flight training and who later complained of racial discrimination against him during the training.

Dwight headed a now-defunct fast-food chain of which Tuller was a vice president in the latter half of 1969.

Dwight recounted his recollections of Tuller in an interview from his office in Denver, where the food chain known as Rib Cage International had its headquarters and where the former pilot now is a builder.

The account of Tuller's boyhood tragedy and how it blighted his relations with his father was offered by Dwight as he sought possible clues to the crimes of the last week.

Exemptions On Ed Taxes Said Gesture

The New York Times
Moscow — A high Soviet police official was quoted here Tuesday as having said that recent exemptions of education taxes on Jewish emigrants were a gesture toward the United States not a basic change in Soviet policy.

The statement reported by Jewish activists would appear to confirm a widespread view that waivers recently extended to about 190 families were intended to mollify congressional opposition to a trade agreement signed this month by the Soviet Union and the U.S.

According to a letter signed by 47 Jewish activists and made available to Western newsmen the recent tax exemptions were linked to the U.S. trade pact by Col. Andrei Verezin chief of the Visa Department of the Soviet police.

Eighth-Largest Steel Maker Reports Deficit

Youngstown, Ohio (AP) — Lykes-Youngstown Corp. has posted a third-quarter operating loss of $4.4 million, the only one of the major steel mills so far to report a deficit for the period.

The corporation which operates Youngstown, Sheet & Tube Co. the nation's eighth-largest steelmaker reported a restated operating loss of $5 million for the third quarter last year. Sales for the quarter rose 21% to $244.5 million, up from $202.9 million a year ago.

Lykes-Youngstown's net loss totaled $7.6 million after an extraordinary charge of $3.2 million resulting from an adjustment in the company's tax base. The net loss reported for the third quarter of 1971 was $3.1 million.

government, told how personable and knowledgeable and soft-spoken he could be. They told also of the intense sympathy he displayed toward the underprivileged and of his devotion to causes to aid the blacks in particular. Tuller is white.

But they told also of signs of fierce hostilities.

"He had a fantastic antipathy for his ex-wife," Dwight remembered. "He had a very very terrible temper, and he cursed all the time."

Again And Again

Tuller told about the highway death of his brother, and the reaction of his father again and again, Dwight said.

The FBI has obtained warrants for Tuller, whose Oct. 18 resignation from his $26,436-a-year Commerce Department job is effective Thursday, for his 19-year-old son Bryce, reported AWOL from Ft. Bragg, N.C.; and for William Graham, 18.

Houston police confirmed that Tuller's younger son, 18-year-old Jonathan R. was suspected of being the fourth member of the group that hijacked an Eastern Airlines jet to Havana.

Two Little Girls Killed

Belfast (AP) — Violence shuddered through Northern Ireland again Tuesday night and its victims included two little girls, a soldier and a teen-aged youth.

The girls, aged 4 and 6, were killed by a powerful bomb that blasted a tavern frequented by Roman Catholics and wounded another 11 persons.

Paula Strong and Clare Hughes were playing around a Halloween bonfire 40 yards from the center of the blast.

Paula, 6, died on the spot. Clare died in a hospital later from her wounds.

A soldier was fatally wounded by a sniper elsewhere, and a youth was found dead on the outskirts of the city.

The bomb that blasted Ben's Bar in Ship Street — a mainly Protestant precinct — was the first major explosion in Belfast in two weeks. It apparently was planted in a car parked outside the building.

Thone Invited To Join Berg In TV Debate

Democratic congressional nominee Darrel Berg Tuesday invited Congressman Charles Thone to join him in a "live" television debate next Sunday night.

In an open letter to Thone, Berg said he has purchased time from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. on Lincoln television station KOLN-TV Sunday.

"I invite you to join me at the studio on Sunday evening," he wrote in a paid advertisement in the Lincoln newspapers.

"If we engage in a live and unrehearsed discussion, it might help our viewers decide how they will be represented best in Congress in 1973."

Berg said he has urged Thone to join him in a discussion of the issues for the past six months.

"Mr. Thone has steadfastly refused to appear on the same platform with Mr. Berg for an open discussion," Berg's campaign coordinator, Pauline Anderson, said.

"It is our conviction that Mr. Thone is following what appears to be national Republican campaign policy which is 'no confrontation' and certainly no honest, open discussion of the many issues of this day."

Hi There, Big Bear

Fortunately, Paxton is a small town of only 605 people and there aren't a lot of other bars where you can blurt your senses before walking into Ole's Big Game Bar.

Can you imagine getting a little tipsy and walking into a bar to find a 1,600-pound, white polar bear, standing 14 feet tall staring at you with his teeth bared? We suppose if you've managed to get tipsy often enough, maybe you have imagined such a happening.

But you can drive less than one mile off Interstate 80 between North Platte and Ogallala and find that bear as your greeter at Ole's.

Any Nebraska football fans driving to Colorado for this week's game, who don't take 30 minutes to stop at Ole's — whether you want a drink or not — could make only one bigger mistake, missing the game.

Ole's game, all of which he has bagged himself, includes an elephant, a tiger, a leopard, a buffalo and a jaguar, in addition to many lesser animals that are well displayed on the premises.

But if you do stop there, Ole advises you to just ask for Ole, not for Rosser Herstedt, his real name, explaining, "Nobody knows me by that name."

Success Not Instant

Regardless of what you might think after a tour of the premises, Ole was not an instant success as a big game hunter.

"I didn't even own a gun when I made my first hunting trip 25 or 30 years ago," he recalls. "Some fellows asked me to go hunting with them for deer and antelope in Colorado and they had to loan me a gun."

And his first big game excursion turned up a zero when he went after a jaguar in Ecuador back in 1960. He finally bagged a jaguar 12 years later, his latest addition to the collection, and that's the animal you'll see with the Python snake hovering just above the cash register.

Between the jaguar shut out and the bagging of the jaguar came the landing of a tiger in India, the polar bear in Siberia, being knocked down by a leopard, attacked by a lion and barely scrambling out of the way of a charging elephant.

Just as Ole was not an overnight success as a big game hunter, neither was the bagging of the giant and beautiful polar bear an overnight trip.

Most of Ole's big game excursions have to be set up nearly a year in advance to arrange for transportation and guides.

Siberia Off Limits, But . . .

The polar bear was bagged in Siberia, a place where Ole admits, "we weren't supposed to be."

"We had two planes that flew close together and guides, but when we arrived the weather wasn't right, so we had to wait several days for the right kind of weather."

"When we finally got out, we spotted one bear and buzzed around him a few times, but decided we didn't want him. We then spotted a sow with two cubs, but passed them up also."

"We finally spotted this big polar bear and decided we had to have him. The other plane continued to circle above him while our plane looked for a place to land. By the time we found a place to land, we had lost him, but the other plane picked him up again."

"It was 45 degrees below zero out there and the guide and myself were walking around trying to find that bear. We finally spotted him, but then lost him."

"When we spotted him again, the guide asked me if I could hit him. We had a camera and the guide was going to take pictures of it."

"By now the bear was about 40 yards away and he had smelled us. The guide told me the camera wouldn't work, but I told him we couldn't worry about that now because that bear was coming and I felled him with one shot."

That's the bear that's standing guard at the door of Ole's Big Game Bar in Paxton.

It's a popular attraction for school tours in the spring and it's an excellent place for a break on a drive through Nebraska.

—NOT A BAD AVERAGE—

Devaney Supports NU Rushing Attack

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Bob Devaney doesn't agree with those detractors, who claim his Nebraska football team's running game isn't what it once was.

"I feel that some teams have ganged up to try to stop our running game," Devaney offered in rebuttal Tuesday. "And that's helped to open up our passing game."

"I'm not going to worry about it as long as we're gaining 500 yards a game. That's not a bad average."

Nebraska's seven-game statistics would seem to back the Husker coach and refute the detractors. The Huskers are averaging 234.1 yards per game rushing and 258.1 per contest passing for a total offense average of 492.2 yards.

"If teams wouldn't let us throw, then we'd throw only eight or 10 times a game and run the ball," Devaney added.

"I think we have run well out of the information," he continued. "But when we're in the spread, it limits your running a little more."

That Husker coach also pointed out that a couple of more formations have been added to the Husker attack this season, one of which they picked up while getting the College All-Stars ready for the Dallas Cowboys last summer.

While some teams have stacked their defenses to stop the Husker running game, Devaney figures they may start seeing more defenses setting up with the primary aim of stopping the NU passing attack.

"Oklahoma State tried this some by trying to put pressure on the passer," he pointed out. "But our offensive line has done a good job of handling that and of protecting our quarterback."

Contest Rescheduled

Lincoln Northeast's reserve football game with Lincoln East, originally scheduled for Wednesday at the Lincoln High oval, has been rescheduled for Thursday at 3 p.m. at the Northeast field because of poor field conditions.

Rodgers Or Glover For Heisman Trophy Voting?

... DEVANEY TELLS NEW YORK WRITERS HE'D FLIP A COIN

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

New York (AP) — Nebraska's defense has recorded four straight shutouts for the first time in 35 years, but Bob Devaney doesn't know how much longer it can continue.

"I don't think we've been playing as tough football teams the last few weeks as we will the next couple of weeks," says the coach of the defending two-time national champions.

After an opening-game loss to UCLA that dropped them from first place to 10th in The Associated Press ratings, the Cornhuskers have trimmed Texas A&M 37-7, Army 77-7, Minnesota 49-0, Missouri 62-0, Kansas 56-0 and Oklahoma State 34-0. The schedule finds them at Colorado on Saturday and at Iowa State the following week. The Huskers are at home against Kansas State on Nov. 18 and Oklahoma on Thanksgiving.

They're back up to third in the rankings — behind Southern California and Alabama — and haven't given up their dream of an unprecedented third consecutive national crown as a farewell present to Devaney, who retires as coach this season to devote full time to his duties as athletic director.

"The players and coaches realize this is a possibility," Devaney says, "but we can't worry about anyone else. The first thing we've got to do is win the tough games ourselves."

"Realistically, though, Southern Cal probably will have to lose a game, tie one or have as much trouble as they did against Oregon 18-0."

Devaney also has decided to push flanker Johnny Rodgers over middle guard Rich Glover as Nebraska's candidate for the Heisman Trophy.

"If I had to vote for one of the two, I'd probably flip a coin," he says. "Glover is an outstanding lineman, but I think I'm being realistic in pushing Rodgers because there's never been a defensive lineman in the history of football who won the Heisman. Except for two offensive ends, it's always gone to a backfield player."

Devaney also says his sophomore quarterback, Dave Humm, is "farther along than Jerry Tagge was his sophomore year."

The Nebraska coach made his remarks via a telephone hookup to the New York Football Writers' weekly meeting. In the audience were John Bateman of 3-4 Rutgers and Jake McCandless of 1-3-1 Princeton.

"Wouldn't you like to have his problems?" Bateman whispered to McCandless.

AL YOUNG HONOR TO PERRY

Indian Hurler Named Winner

... WOOD FINISHES SECOND

New York (AP) — Gaylord Perry, rangy Cleveland right-hander accused by opponents of throwing spitballs, was named winner Tuesday of the 1972 Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the American League.

The 34-year-old Indian ace had a 24-16 record and an earned run average of 1.92, second to the league's best, the 1.91 by Luis Tiant of Boston.

In winning the Cy Young Award, Perry duplicated the feat of his brother, Jim, who was voted the AL's top pitcher at Minnesota in 1970. That was the year Gaylord and Jim became the first brother combination in major league history to win 20 games each.

Perry narrowly edged Wilbur Wood, Chicago White Sox knuckleballer, in the vote of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

He received nine first place votes from the 24-man committee, two from each AL city, and finished with a total of 64 points compared with 58 for Wood.

Under the voting system, five points are awarded for a first place vote, three for second, one for third. Wood was picked first on seven ballots. No one pitcher was named on all 24 ballots.

Wood, who finished with a 24-17 record, appeared to have clinched the Cy Young Award going into the last month of the season. But after pitching two shutouts in his first two September starts he failed in his next seven tries, losing five of the games.

Perry's achievement was remarkable because it came with a losing club. The Indians finished fifth in the AL's Eastern Division.

The tall right-hander won one-third of Cleveland's games. He pitched 29 complete games in 40 starts and never missed a turn.

Perry came to the Indians in a post-season trade last year from the San Francisco Giants, who also gave up infielder Frank Duffy in a deal for pitcher Sam McDowell.

Perry was signed by the Giants to an $80,000 bonus contract—the highest bonus payment in Giants' history—as a schoolboy wonder at Williamston, N.C., in June, 1958. Ten years later he pitched a no-hitter for the Giants against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Besides Perry and Wood, four other pitchers received first place votes for the Cy Young trophy. They were Mickey Lolich of Detroit, who got three and a total of 27 points for third place, Jim

Huskers Advance In UPI Rankings

New York (UPI) — The Big Eight is on the march again.

Nebraska and Oklahoma, both felled by unexpected early or mid-season losses, showed some of that good old-time resiliency in the latest ratings of the United Press International board of coaches as the only two teams to gain in the top 10.

Nebraska, defending national champions, rolled to its fourth straight shutout last week (34-0 over Oklahoma State) and moved into the No. 3 spot behind top-ranked Southern California and No. 2 Alabama. More significant, however, is the fact that the Cornhuskers, in their last five games, have outscored the opposition 278-7.

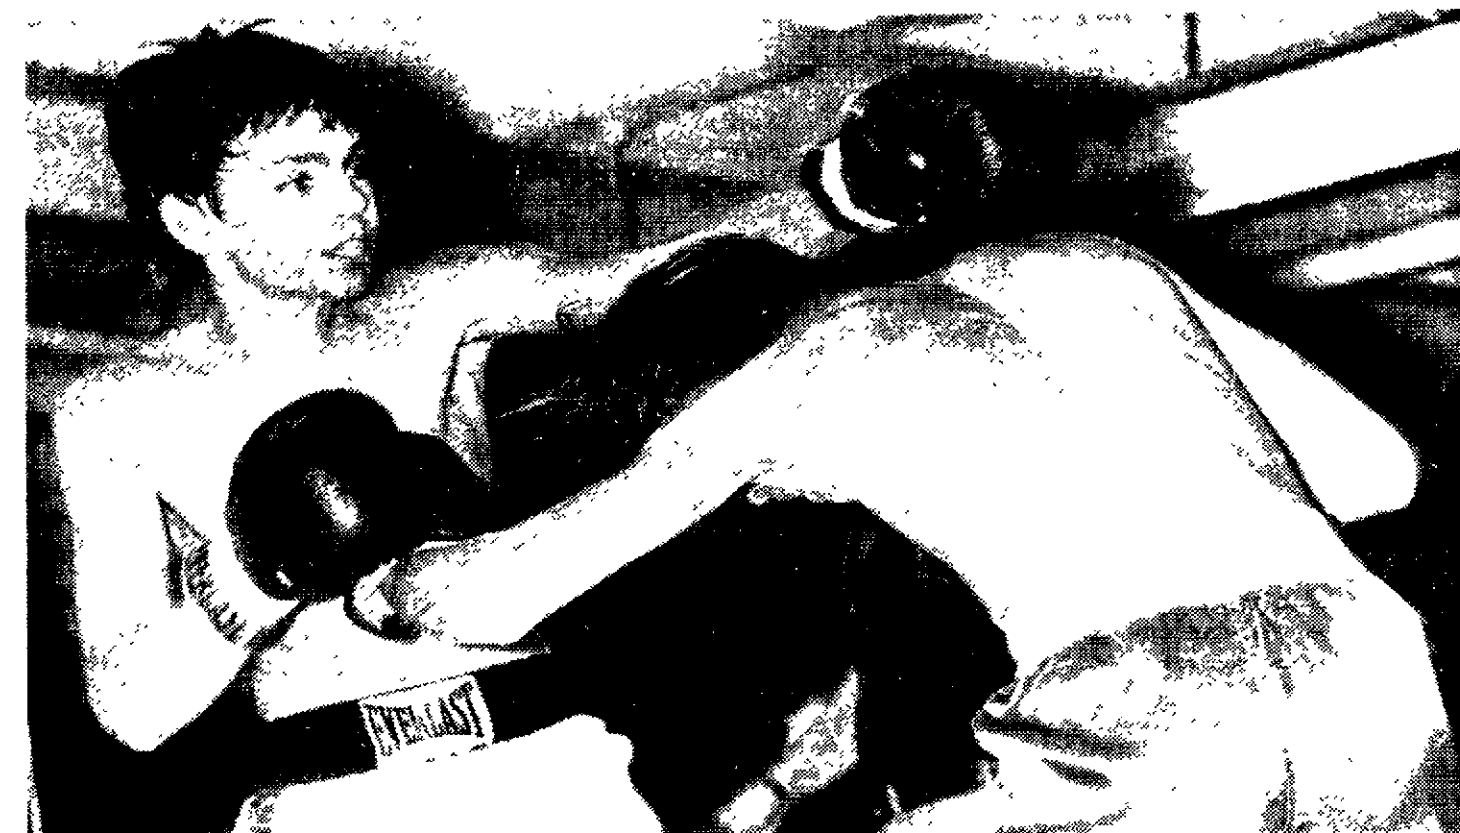

Oklahoma also showed a marked gain this week after falling from second to eighth last week when it was upset by Colorado State Sooners, who rebounded 52-0 over Kansas State, improved two notches to sixth.

One Big Eight team didn't fare so well this week and that was Colorado. The Buffs, shocked for the second time this year by one of the conference's "also rans", dropped from seventh to 14th after being ambushed 20-17 by Missouri.

Earlier in the year Colorado was upset by Oklahoma State but that was looked at as a "fluke" after the Buffs dropped Oklahoma from the unbeaten ranks two weeks ago.

Once again only 18 teams received votes this week with most of the balloting centered around the first seven teams.

Hill Records TKO Win Over Stevens

... 'GIANT STRIDE' FOR CHAMPIONSHIP HOPES

By RANDY EICKHOFF
Star Sports Writer

It's a long road back after a year's lay-off, but Dave Hill took a giant stride towards regaining his Southeast District and Midwest Golden Gloves crowns with a TKO victory over Air Force Sergeant Lloyd Stevens Tuesday night at Pershing Auditorium.

Hill, who won the 178-pound Midwest crown in 1971 in Omaha, scored with crisp combinations and hard rights to wear down Stevens, forcing referee Larry Emery to stop the fight at 1:12 of the third round. But Hill said later that it could have ended sooner.

"I think I probably had him in the second," he gasped after leaving the ring. "But he's a cagey fighter and he didn't know if he was faking being tired or not so I was a little careful."

"When he wore out in the third round, I knew I could have taken him out earlier," he explained.

Hill staggered the 170-pound Omaha twice in the second, but let his opponent recover instead of carrying the fight to him. This, he explained, was another part of his strategy.

"I've only been working out about a month and I wanted to work three rounds," the 170-pound Easterday Boxing Club fighter explained. "My legs are still a little weak, but I'll really be in shape for the next smoker on Nov. 15."

Hill admitted that the southpaw style of Stevens bothered him at first, but he quickly found the key and matched Stevens' bobbing and weaving style with one of his own.

"He didn't hurt me in there at all," Hill said, "but I think I hurt him a little. I'm throwing pretty hard punches now, but I'll be throwing harder ones next time."

The Halloween crowd of 210 saw other TKO's, however.

Greg Scott, 165, Easterday, scored a TKO victory over Bob Hoffman, 170. Branding Iron, in 1:38 of the third as did teammate Bill Maack, 145, who used several solid lefts to win via the TKO route over Ray Fritz, 149, Omaha, in 1:36 of the second.

Omaha Terry Grindstaff, 150, TKO'd Tony Lieb, 142, of Easterday in 1:51 of the first round after the brawling fighters elected to slug it out in the middle of the ring from the opening bell.

Lieb was knocked down twice and received two standing eight counts before Emery stopped the fight, awarding the Omaha the victory.

Philadelphia, Brewers Complete Player Deal

Philadelphia (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies traded third baseman Don Money, pitcher Bill Champion and infielder John Vukovich to the Milwaukee Brewers Tuesday for starting pitchers Jim Lonborg, Ken Brett and two relievers.

The two relief pitchers acquired by the National League Phillies are Ken Sanders and Earl Stephenson.

OU Tops Offensive Stats

NEW YORK (AP) — Oklahoma's Wishbone attack has the Sooners back on top in the major college football team total offense and rushing statistics this week.

The Sooners rolled up 677 yards over-all, including 496 yards on the ground, last Saturday in beating Kansas State 52-0.

The National Collegiate Sports Service reported today that the Sooner football team is averaging 588.5 yards per game on offense. Nebraska is second with 493.0 yards. Last week's total offense leader, Arizona State, was beaten by Air Force and dropped to third with 475.4 yards.

Oklahoma after six games, is averaging exactly 400 yards per game on the ground. UCLA is second with a 368.9-yard average. Virginia Tech continued as

'Logjam' Plagues Class D

... FALLS CITY SACRED HEART STILL TOPS

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

One of the biggest logjams for a state football championship is the Class D ratings.

Five 'D' teams could make excellent arguments for a No. 1 rating.

Falls City Sacred Heart, however, continues to lead the tight Class D race. Coach Bill Jenkins' Irish have been top-ranked all season.

They did little to tarnish that reputation last week when they stepped up a class to meet previously unbeaten Nebraska City Lourdes.

Sacred Heart met the challenge with a 22-8 win. No. 2 Nelson's triumphs may have been even more impressive, however. Coach Gary DeBoer's Tigers trounced Alma, 30-0.

Alma, previously a highly-ranked Class C team, had averaged 31 points in its first seven games, six of which it won before getting shut out a first time.

Nelson, a member of the Republican Valley League East division, plays a predominantly Class C schedule. Its only loss has been 18-0 to unbeaten and fourth-ranked Class C Sandy Creek.

Although Nelson's defense does not match statistically with Sacred Heart, it has nevertheless been impressive, if not equally effective.

Nelson has four shutouts and has given up only 38 points in eight games. Sacred Heart has six shutouts and has yielded only 10 points. The touchdown scored against Sacred Heart this season has come on a pass interception.

Although Sacred Heart and Nelson appear to be the class of the D ranks, Hildreth, Elmwood and Davenport are all unbeaten and waiting for something to happen for advancements.

Coach Rich Broberg's Hildreth club has given up only 40 points. It's had two close calls — 6-0 against sixth-ranked Sumner and 3-0 against six-time Class C winner Elm Creek.

Jay Wischmeier's Elmwood club doesn't have to take a back seat defensively to any of the teams rated above it. The Pirates have three shutouts. Their most recent win was 36-14 over Palmyra, a five-time winner.

The most significant part of Elmwood's record is that all

- Comment — Three of top five teams registered impressive wins last week over good Class C opponents. No. 1 Sacred Heart topped previously unbeaten Nebraska City Lourdes, 22-8. No. 2 Nelson hit previously C-rated and once-beaten Alma, 30-0. No. 4 Elmwood defeated five-time 'C' winner Palmyra, 36-14. No. 5 Davenport also downed a C opponent in Lawrence, 46-18. No. 3 Hildreth was only top 5 member to play in own class, dropping Pleasanton, 27-12. Each of top 5 has a good argument for state championship. Second five teams also triumphed last week and retained ratings positions.

Bartlett, No. 9 last week, dropped from top 10 after first loss, 26-24, to Humphrey. Despite 7-1 record, Humphrey failed to crack select group with 20-8 loss to Cedar Rapids marring its record. Humphrey, however, qualifies as prime ratings candidate. Odell, loser only to second-ranked Adams, rejoined top 10 at No. 8 after one-week absence.

Faurot Day Slated Nov. 25

Jefferson City, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes Tuesday proclaimed Nov. 25 "Don Faurot Day" in Missouri and urged all citizens to join in tribute to the long time athletic director at the University of Missouri and inventor of the split-T formation.

Faurot, 70, will be honored that day by dedication of the M.U. football stadium as "Faurot Field."

As football coach from 1935-57, his teams won 101 games, lost 79, tied 10, won three conference titles and went to five post season bowl games.

He was the Tigers' fullback in 1922-23-24, captain of the basketball team and a baseball letterman.

He is a native of Mountain Grove, a member of the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame, National Football Hall of Fame and a Missouri Squire.

In signing the proclamation Tuesday, the governor said he hoped it would not jinx the Tigers on Saturday when they play Kansas State after two big upset victories over Notre Dame and Colorado.

Rail Season Ends Nov. 9

Hunting season on rails ends in Nebraska on Thursday, November 9, reminds the Game and Parks Commission.

Rail are found in marshy areas of the state, but most migrate south rather early in the season. Hunting pressure on these shorebirds is very light in Nebraska, the Commission reports.

Lincoln Turkey Shoot Winners

Lincoln's Doug Seaton, Ron Rutt and Bob Bauer were winners at the Lincoln Gun Club Turkey Shoot Sunday on the club grounds. The three winners took home a Thanksgiving bird in the skeet competition.

Club champion for the day was Rex French, hitting 47 of 50 clay birds. There were 17 entries.

Bulls Topple Kings, 104-95

CHICAGO (AP) — Chet Walker and Bob Love combined for 17 points during a third quarter rally Tuesday night, sparking the Chicago Bulls to a 104-95 victory over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings for their fifth consecutive National Basketball Association triumph.

The Bulls, who have now won six of their last seven contests, were kept at bay during an even first half as Kansas City stayed in contention behind Nate Archibald's 20 points.

The Bulls, leading 60-55 early in the third quarter, scored 11 consecutive points.

Walker, who scored 25 points, contributed seven points in the spree, while Love added eight of his 10 points to give Chicago a 79-66 lead. The Bulls went ahead by as many as 21 points in the final quarter before the Kings were able to cut the margin to as low as eight points. Archibald led all players with 30 points.

NU, Buffs Eyed By Gator Bowl

Jacksonville, Fla. (UPI) — Two big games in both the Big Eight and Southeastern Conferences highlight this weekend's schedule for Gator Bowl scouts.

Scouts will see the Colorado-Nebaska, Oklahoma-Iowa State, Auburn-Florida and Tennessee-Georgia games.

Other teams on the Gator Bowl list of prospects include Penn State, Air Force, Texas Tech, Notre Dame, North Carolina and Arkansas.

Automatic NFL Fine?

Washington (AP) — A National Labor Relations Board hearing officer recommended Tuesday that National Football League owners be ordered to rescind an automatic fine of $200 against any player leaving the bench during a fight on the playing field.

Green Bay, Wis. (UPI) — The Green Bay Packers picked up former University of Colorado running back Ward Walsh Tuesday and placed Charlie Pittman on waivers.

Run-Pass-Score Touchdowns Amundson Does It All-Well

... CYCLONE NAMED BACK OF WEEK

Kansas City (AP) — George Amundson is Iowa State's most modest football player. He also is its best.

The Cyclone quarterback can do a lot of things with a football. Run . . . pass . . . execute the option . . . score touchdowns . . .

You name it. Amundson can do it.

He did them all last Saturday in leading the Cyclones to a 34-8 victory over Kansas.

Amundson hit on 13 of 27 passes for 194 yards and three touchdowns, the scores coming on pitches of 49, 13 and 18 yards.

He ran 71 yards for another touchdown and rushed nine times for 110 yards.

'Poke Backfield In 'Good Shape'

Stillwater, Okla. (AP) — With the offensive backfield in the best shape it has been in weeks, Oklahoma State went through a cold, rainy workout Tuesday in preparation for Saturday's clash with Kansas.

Fountain Smith and George Palmer look like O-State starters at left halfback and fullback respectively, but offensive coordinator, Tug Gabriel adds, "We'll wait and see who has the best practice this week."

The right halfback spot is up for grabs with Alton Gerard, Tony Boxwell and Alfred Nelms fighting it out for the starting assignment.

Ski Show Slated At Union Nov. 8

A ski show featuring booths operated by more than a dozen ski areas will open at the University of Nebraska Union at 7 p.m. Nov. 8.

The booths, featuring displays on Colorado ski areas and Devil's Nest, will also be open from 10 to 4 Thursday.

An evening program will feature a local ski style show and a talk and demonstrations by representatives of two Colorado ski areas. Booths will be open at 7 p.m. that evening and the show will begin at 7:30.

His performance earned Amundson Big Eight Conference offensive player of the week honors by a split vote of a panel of sports writers over a halfback Tommy Reamon, who ran Missouri to a 20-17 upset victory over then seventh-ranked Colorado.

Of Amundson, Cyclone coach Johnny Majors said:

"I'm a country boy, and I've seen some pretty fair country ball players. He is the finest athlete I've ever seen."

"He is a super football player. He should be foremost in consideration for the Heisman Trophy."

"Show me anybody in the country who can do the things he can do. Where would we be without him?"

With Amundson, a running back last season, Iowa State has a 5-1 record and is ranked No. 14 in the nation.

Reamon, a junior college transfer, gained 87 yards on 15 carries against Colorado, caught a pass for 20 yards and scored on a three-yard run to cap a 24-yard drive on which he made all of the

Mizzou Forced Inside By Rain

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — Rain forced the Missouri offensive unit to work out inside Tuesday and coach Al Onofrio said the team was able to work on everything but punting.

Of Missouri's 16th ranking in The Associated Press poll, Onofrio said, "Ratings are made on the basis of past performance and we are thinking only of Kansas State."

A decision will be made later on the availability of running backs Bill Ziegler, Chuck Link and Ray Bybee, all hampered with injuries, he said.

Kansas Accents Rushing Attack

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas University concentrated on its running game in a spirited one and a half hour drill in a light drizzle Tuesday.

Running back Robert Miller was still slowed by a muscle pull, and linebacker Mike Gardner had a slightly sprained ankle.

Freshman running back Robert McSkall, who rushed for 195 yards against the Oklahoma State frosh last Friday, was suited up with the varsity for the first time.

He helped set up Greg Hill's winning field goal with six seconds left with a six-yard run and a 12-yard sweep to the Buffs' 20.

Before the game, Reamon had said:

"If I run the ball, Missouri will win. I love the traps because I can ream 'em well."

"I feel I get stronger and faster as I get tired. I'm a hell of a football player."

That he was in the Tigers' second stunner in as many weeks.

The other offensive nominees were Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska, Robert Miller of Kansas, William McDonald of Colorado and Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma.

K-State's Gibson Praises Offense

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State's football team worked extensively on its running attack in a 90-minute practice session Tuesday.

"Our offense looks better than it has for some time," said coach Vince Gibson after the workout.

Gibson singled out fullback Don Calhoun for praise for his work in what the coach termed "a real good three-on-three drill."

Wide receiver Rick Ferguson, who has a sprained back, was listed as doubtful for Saturday's meeting with Missouri here.

Isaac Jackson, halfback, has a sprained shoulder but is expected to return to action by late in the week.

Tulsa Duo Quits Football Squad

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Two starting players quit the University of Tulsa football squad rather than bow to a shorter hair policy of new coach F. A. Dry.

Team captain Marc Funk, a three-year regular at linebacker, and center George Kulovic decided to quit when Fry, named interim coach over the weekend, established a grooming policy on hair length.

The policy, in essence, limits hair length to the point of not sticking out below the playing helmet and sideburns no longer than the ear. Mustaches were not banned.

Giger's Field Goal, Interception Pace Upset Win

... KENESAW SENIOR EARNS PREP PLAYER OF THE WEEK LAURELS

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

The game is tied, 6-6. There's 10 seconds left. The goal post is 40 yards away. Your kicker has never attempted a field goal in a varsity game.

So what happens? You give him a chance, he delivers and you go home a 9-6 winner.

That's what happened when Kenesaw football coach Joe Heckenlively elected to have senior Bob Giger kick a field goal against Harvard in a Class C game last week.

For the clutch kick, scoring his team's only touchdown and an outstanding defensive game, Giger earns the Journal and Star's Prep Player of the week award.

"I know it sounds funny," says Heckenlively, "but I had a lot of confidence in Bob even though he had never tried a kick for us.

I had confidence partly because of the kid's nature," he adds. "He hates to lose more than anyone else on the team."

Giger, who had attempted two unsuccessful field goals last season in reserve games, "had been kicking 35-yards in practice with a good snap and a good set," according to Heckenlively. "But it hadn't been consistent. He'd hit about 4 of every 10."

Defense played a major part in turning back Harvard which entered the game with an impressive 6-1 record.

Giger, though only 5-8 and 155 pounds, calls the defensive signals for Kenesaw. He finished with 12 unassisted tackles and five assisted stops from his linebacker's position.

Because he plays only defense, Giger was an unlikely scorer. But his 40-yard pass interception for a touchdown on the first play of the game served to make him a Player of the Week in almost every way.

Others cited for their play will receive Player of Week cards.

Mark Boyer, Omaha Westside — Sticky 5-10, 210-pound fullback rushed for 192 yards on 23 carries and scored three touchdowns to lead fifth-ranked club past undefeated Lincoln High, 27-14.

Kevin Young, Norris — Senior defensive back intercepted a pass with two minutes left and ran it back 30 yards for a touchdown to give unbeaten team 12-4 win over Crete.

David Bennett, Gibson — Caught five-yard scoring pass with three seconds remaining to boost team to third straight Lou-Platte Conference title 26-18 win over Shelton in battle of unbeaten teams.

Mike Landerfield, Dodge — Scored team's three touchdowns on runs of 31 and 71 yards and a 35-yard pass and kicked all three extra points in 21-13 win over Elkhorn at Mitchell.

David Heach, Dix — Quarterback scored on 75-yard run, threw two 20-yard TD passes, rushed for 117 yards on 10 carries, completed 7 of 10 passes for 113 yards and had outstanding defensive game in teams' 44-0 coast past Mabel.

Rick Buresh, Orem — Senior halfback scored all of his team's points in 24-0, coast-to-coast victory over Hordville. After touchdown runs of 55 and 3 yards and a pair of two-point conversions, he caught a 43-yard TD pass with 1:39 left in game and added another two-point conversion. Finished with 100 yards rushing on 13 carries and contributed 19 tackles, 16 unassisted, from outside linebacker position.

Chuck Biggs, Lincoln Northeast — Caught a 41-yard touchdown pass and came up with his 10th pass interception en route to Rockets' 45-0 romp past Omaha Bryan.

Steve Smith, Lexington — Scored 2-yard touchdown with 26 seconds remaining, enabling No. 1-ranked club to overtake Ord, 32-28. He also had scored the game's first touchdown on a 3-yard run.

Doug Breining, Arapahoe — Kicked a 31-yard field goal with 18 seconds remaining in the game as Class C-rated club withstood challenge of Bertrand, 15-14.

Bob Maguire, Murdoch — Quarterback completed 8 of 7 passes for 312 yards, including scoring strikes of 35, 37 and 52 and caught a TD pass of 48 yards on end double reverse pass in eighth man team's 35-14 upset of Malcolm.

Wendell Moppe, Farnam — Sophomore halfback scored four touchdowns, rushed for 142 yards on 13 carries, made 13 tackles and intercepted three passes in 100-ranked club's 45-12 win over previously unbeaten Doniphan.

Steve Vanderlicke, Chester-Hubbell — Scored five TDs on runs of 8 and 6 yards, passes of 50 and 27 yards and a 52-yard interception while accumulating 170 rushing yards in team's 42-12 win over Fairmont.

Jim Shores, Hayes Center — Blocked a punt and recovered a fumble for a pair of touchdowns in eight-man club's stunning 25-14 upset of previously unbeaten and fourth-ranked Trenton.

Habitat Roles Help Outlook For Hunters

With a good grouse season already under their belts, Nebraska upland hunters can now look forward to fine pheasant and quail seasons, reports the Game and Parks Commission.

The outlook is bright for ringneck and bobwhite hunting, with both seasons opening throughout Nebraska on Saturday, November 4. On October 15, Nebraska hunters ended one of the best prairie grouse seasons in recent years.

"This year's high game bird populations illustrate the role that habitat plays," commented Phil Agee, chief of the Commission's Wildlife Services Bureau. "We had a mild winter, followed by exceptionally good growing conditions in the spring. This gave us excellent nesting and brooding cover. This year's population demonstrates that, when the habitat is there, the birds respond.

"This year, good weather and the resulting vegetation made the difference. In years when this does not happen, it is up to man to provide wildlife with a favorable environment. With it, the birds are there...without it, they are not," he said.

Commission biologists noted increases in all game bird populations in pre-season surveys. This year's pheasant population is about 15 percent larger than last year's and bobwhite numbers are up about 12 percent.

Bag and possession limits on ringnecks this year are 3 and 12. Hunters may also take 6 quail per day and have as many as 18 in possession. Shooting hours for both species are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset. The pheasant and quail hunts run through January 14, 1973.

Stock Market Climbs

New York (U) — The stock market shifted gears and cruised into a rally Tuesday, as investors apparently felt a little more comfortable about the Vietnam peace negotiations than they did during Monday's flat performance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 955.52, up 9.10, after climbing with only a few pauses during the session.

Advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange were 2 to 1 ahead of losers consistently throughout the day, the final count being 973 to 471.

"The word from Vietnam is a little more encouraging," said Eldon A. Grimm, senior vice president of Walston & Co., "and at the same time we may be getting started on a pre-election rally. Of course, we don't have to have one, but it often happens."

Declaring that "the news from Vietnam is getting more concrete," Alan R. Shaw of Harris, Upham & Co. said that "the feeling is that a peace settlement is getting closer and investors are getting some confidence."

The most-active issue on the Big Board was Digital Equipment, down 5 1/4 to 80 1/4 for a decline of 6.1 per cent. After a trading halt, the issue resumed at 78 on 77,600 shares. The company said it was having supply problems "in almost every area," which affected sales in the Sept. 30 first quarter and "add risk" to the second quarter. But it repeated earlier predictions of a "modest" gain for fiscal 1973.

Second most-active was Levitz Furniture, up 1/4 to 21 1/4. The action came on a block of 101,800 shares at 21. A company official said Monday's operations had picked up in October, a few disappointing months but added the 1973 program opening new units would be postponed.

Block trading accounted for the next most-active issue, 35 to 36, and Anacostia ahead 1 1/4 to 36 1/4. Monday it had lost 3 1/4, with a company official saying there was no internal reason for the decline.

The Amex's price change index was up .06 to 25.93.

Soybean Futures Prices 5c Lower

Chicago (U) — Soybean futures came under heavy profit-taking pressure after three sessions of advancing prices and fell back 5 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Soybean meal eased $1.00 a ton and soy oil closed on an irregular tone. Corn futures declined 3 1/2 cents while oats fell 2 cents. Wheat was 1 1/4 cents lower.

At the close, soybeans were 3 to 5 cents a bushel lower, November 3.54 1/2; wheat was unchanged to 1 1/4 lower, December 2.00 1/2; corn was 1 1/2 lower, December 1.34 1/2; and oats were 2 1/2 lower to 1 1/4 higher, December 87 1/2 cents.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

DO YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

The nation's wild turkey population jumped from 97,000 in 1952 to 531,000 in 1958.

Utah's state animal is the Rocky Mountain elk.

Nathan Hale was hanged by the British as a spy on Sept. 22, 1776, in New York City.

Yellowstone National Park was the first extensive land area set aside and preserved for the benefit of the public.

Poi, a food staple in Hawaii, is sometimes used as a gentle cleansing agent.

The wood thrush is the official bird of Washington, D.C.

Pandas come from eastern Tibet and Szechwan Province in southwest China.

Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) rates for electricity in its area are still about 57% below the national average.
